JUDGE DAVIS'S bill to establish a uniform system of naturalization, met with attacks from the most unexpected quarters. The Democrats attacked the measure because it was striking at their prime strength; the Pacific Coast disapproved of it because it might afford political rights to the Chinese; while the West generally opposed it, as they selfishly oppose everything that does not in some way benefit themselves. Mr. Davis will try to have it passed in some amended form.

PARTICULARS have come to hand by mail of the terrible earthquake which nearly ruined the entire city of Oaxaca, Mexico, on the 11th ult. About eleven o'clock P. M., several hard shocks were felt, causing destruction of life and property all over the city. The motion was oscillating at first from south to north, then vertical or trembling. The shocks lasted about forty eight seconds, and in force, destruction and severity surpassed anything of the kind that has ever taken place in Mexico. The palace was almost destroyed, and it will require thousands of dollars to again make it suitable for occupancy. The Church of San Francisco is one mass of ruins, and the whole of the corridors of the old convent of San Juan de Dios fell, burying four persons and wounding many more. The clock tower, which was only finished on the 5th of May, was shaken down, passing through the top of the building into the Supreme Court rooms, and through the floors of these into the portals of the palace. The total number of persons killed is about one hundred, while it is impossible to ascertain the number of the wounded. The shocks continued at intervals during the following day, and terror reigned supreme throughout the city, the people remaining in the public squares and outside of the city for fear that greater shocks would come, and, on account of its dilapidated condition, make a complete ruin of the entire city.

He was about 70 years of age, and leaves a wife and a large family of grown up children, all of whom are married.

THE Quakertown Mirror says: A strange man lately died in Montgomery, Pa., of the glanders. About four weeks since, while engaged in hauling ice, he contracted a cold which took a severe hold upon his robust condition; fever and general debility set in, and afterwards the disease assumed a strange form, and for some time baffled the skill of his attendant physicians. After a careful investigation it was found that, strange as it may appear, his real disease was glanders. During last fall and winter he took care of a horse that had this disease, and it is the opinion of those who are best acquainted with the circumstances that the poison got into his blood.

EDITORS GAZETTE: Through the medium of your valuable journal, I desire to state that I feel deeply sensible of the kindness of my friends in proposing and urging my name in connection with the position of State Senator in the present campaign, but being unable to spare the time that would be required in conducting the Senatorial canvass, by reason of my having resumed my occupation in the rolling mill, I am compelled to decline the profered honor.

To those of my friends who have generously manifested so great an interest in my behalf, I tender my heartfelt thanks, and if consistent with their views and wishes, as also those of the people of the country, I shall again submit my name to the approaching Republican Convention as a candidate for Assembly.

(SECOND SESSION.)

SENATE: Transportation of Foreign Merchandise to Interior Points—Ocean Mail Service—Invalid Pensions—Franking Bill Further Considered Without Action. HOUSE: Vote on the Cuban Question—Mr. Bingham's Substitute for the Resolution of the Foreign Affairs Committee Adopted.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 16, 1870.

SENATE.

Mr. CORBETT, from Committee on Commerce, reported a substitute for the bill to facilitate transportation of European, Asiatic and Australian merchandise to the interior cities of the United States and across the continent. The substitute provides only for the transportation of goods in bond across the continent.

Mr. CORBETT made a statement in correction of a newspaper report of the amendments of the Committee on Commerce to the bill authorizing the establishment of ocean mail steamship service between the United States and Australia. He stated the amount of subsidy had been reduced to $300,000, and was to be on the condition that the Australian colonies gave a similar amount.

Mr. CHANDLER, from Committee on Commerce, reported a joint resolution pledging the faith of the Government to construct a suitable breakwater and harbor of refuge at the eastern entrance of the proposed Cape Cod ship canal, to be ready for use on its completion, provided the entire expense to the Government for such breakwater and harbor of refuge shall not exceed two million dollars, and that said ship canal be forever free to vessels and property of the United States.

Mr. CHANDLER, from same Committee, reported without amendment the bill to repeal the act of March 17th, 1800, declaring the assent of Congress to certain acts of the States of Maryland and Georgia.

Mr. DRAKE, member of the Committee of Conference appointed on the invalid pension appropriation bill, stated the House of Representatives, after being informed of the appointment of new members on the part of the Senate, had, contrary to parliamentary courtesy, reappointed their original members. The Committee did not feel disposed to submit to what they considered the indignity put upon the Senate by the House, and therefore asked to be excused from further service.

The Committee were excused and Messrs. Morrill, of Maine, Nye and Stockton substituted in their places.

Mr. WILSON called up the bill granting condemned cannon for a soldiers' monument in Poughkeepsie.

On motion of Mr. SHERMAN, the bill was made general by authorizing the Secretary of War to deliver to any city or municipality condemned iron or cannon for soldiers' monuments, when not detrimental to the public service.

As amended the bill passed.

Mr. PATTERSON called up the House bill to establish a Department of Justice. Passed.

The franking bill came up as the regular order of business.

After a long discussion Mr. Stewart's motion to postpone the subject till next session was rejected—yeas 17, nays 34.

Mr. Drake' amendment extending the present provisions of the law relative to the free transmission of newspapers was adopted—yeas 36, nays 17.

Mr. MORRILL, (Vt.,) offered an amendment continuing the franking privilege to persons upon whom it was especially conferred by law, to the Executive Departments and Agricultural Department, remarking his object was to take away the franking privilege from all members of Congress, and from all post masters.

Mr. SUMNER gave notice he would move a substitute for the entire bill.

Without a vote upon the pending amendment the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. SCHENCK, from the Committee of Ways and Means, reported the bill to abolish the duty on coal, to put it on the free list in this form: "coal, bituminous and of every other kind."

The bill was referred to the Committee of the Whole.

The House then proceeded to vote on the Cuban resolution, the first vote being on Mr. Logan's amendment to construe the neutrality bill so as to give to both contending parties the same advantages of intercourse and trade with the United States, consistent with the law of nations, that have been or may be conceded to the government of Spain. Rejected—yeas 77, nays 107.

The next vote was on the substitute offered yesterday by Mr. Bingham.

Pending the vote Mr. MAYNARD moved that the whole subject be laid on the table. Rejected—23 to 94.

Mr. Bingham's substitute for the resolution reported by the majority of the Committee was agreed to—100 to 17.

The next question was the substitution of Mr. Bingham's amendment for the resolution reported by the majority of the Committee.

On a count by the Speaker there were 70 ayes and 68 nays.

The yeas and nays were called for and the substitute was agreed to—yeas 101, nays 68.

Mr. BEAMEN then moved to lay the whole subject on the table. Rejected.

The resolution as amended was then agreed to, so that Mr. Bingham's amendment is the form in which the resolution has passed.

Mr. KELSEY, from the Conference Committee on Pension Appropriation bill, reported that committee had not been able to agree, the Senate insisting on striking out the appropriation for naval pensions, and allowing them to be paid out of the Naval Pension Fund, which is kept apart in the Navy Department, and the House insisting on their being paid like all other pensions, and on the Naval Pension Fund being covered into the Treasury.

After considerable debate the House refused to concur with the Senate—yeas 66, nays 89, and insisted upon its own position.

Before the announcement of the vote it appeared that Mr. Bingham had not been in the hall while the vote was being taken, but some person had voted for him, an incident which drew forth remarks from the Speaker as to vicious habits in connection with taking the yeas and nays, and an expression of the hope from Mr. Brooks that they would not hear any more about New York "repeaters." [Laughter.]

Mr. BINGHAM, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, offered a resolution directing the Sargeant-at-Arms to take Patrick Woods, now in custody for assault on a member of the House (Mr. Porter), to Richmond, there to testify in a murder case before the Hustings Court, and after he so testified to bring him back to Washington. Agreed to.

Mr. WHEELER, chairman of the Committee on the Pacific Railroad, reported a bill granting to the Utah Central Railroad Company the right of way through public lands for the construction of a railroad and telegraph from Ogden City to Salt Lake City.

The bill was passed.

Mr. WHEELER also reported a bill granting the Island of Yerba Buena, or Goat Island in San Francisco Bay, to the Western Pacific Railway Company, for a terminus, provided half the Island shall be reserved to the United States for fortifications and military purposes, and nothing in the bill shall impair the lawful or equitable rights of private parties to the Island.

Mr. KNOTT moved to amend by requiring payment to the government of $2,000,000. He was informed the Island was worth five millions, and if put up at sheriff's sale to-morrow the first bid would be one million, and he thought if there was any corporation on earth able to buy and pay for it, it was that enormous corporation.

Mr. HOLMAN moved to table the bill. Negatived—65 to 96.

Mr. KNOTT'S amendment was rejected—75 to 91.

The previous question was seconded.

During an interruption of the voting Mr. DAWES, from the Committee on Appropriations, reported the bill to allow six dollars per day to registers and sheriffs in the Fifth Military District. Passed.

On motion of Mr. BINGHAM, the Senate amendments to the bill defining the duties of pension agents, etc., were non-concurred in and a Committee of Conference ordered.

The House then adjourned, the Speaker stating the Yerba Buena bill would remain the business of the morning hour until disposed of.

The following is the vote in detail on substituting Mr. Bingham's amendment for the majority resolution on Cuban affairs:

Yeas—Messrs. Allison, Ambler, Ames, Armstrong, Asper, Atwood, Beaman, Benjamin, Benton, Bingham, Brooks, (Mass.) Buckley, Buffington, Burchard, Butler, (Tenn.) NEW YORK CITY.

Another Speech from the Sioux Chief Red Cloud—Exportation of Breadstuffs—Deputy Marshal Arrested as a Counterfeiter.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 16, 1870.

ANOTHER SPEECH FROM RED CLOUD.

Cooper Institute was crowded at noon to-day by people anxious to hear the remarks of Red Cloud, and to look upon the Sioux Chief. Peter Cooper presided and made a speech favoring conciliatory measures toward the Indians, and denouncing the late war like policy of the Government.

Red Cloud spoke through an interpreter for for about half an hour. He said: The reports of the doings of Indians were all one sided. There is some good in us, although your are told we are murderers and thieves. We have given you all the land we had, but now we have no more. My dear friends we want you to help us with the Government. The Great Spirit made us poor and ignorant, and you rich and wise. We have children to raise like you, and we want you to help us raise them. In 1852 the Great Father made a treaty with us that we should keep our country open for fifty-five years. We respected the treaty. We never committed depredations until troops were sent and killed our people. Goods were sent us frequently, but reached us only once. Soon after the Government took away the only good man (Col. Fitzpatrick) we ever had. The Government said we should go to farming. Some of our people went to Fort Laramie, but they got very poor. We only want peace and justice, and we went to Washington for that purpose, and that is the reason we are here now. In 1868 we signed treaties brought by men, and as we were ignorant we did not know their contents. When I went to Washington the Great Father told me what the treaty was and what we had signed. I then said that I had been deceived, and that the interpreter had deceived me.

THE RAILROAD WAR.

The Erie Railroad Company continue the war against Vanderbilt and the New York Central Road by the further reduction of freight and passenger rates. First class fare to Cincinnati is reduced to $17 and to Louisville $21. It is expected the Vanderbilt lines will make equal if not greater reductions.

RUSH OF BREADSTUFFS FOR EXPORT.

All the available shipping in port is being rapidly taken up for Havre for the transportation of breadstuffs to France. A steamer of the National line was to-day put on for Havre and in ten minutes all her freight room was engaged.

ALLEGED COUNTERFEITER.

George S. A. Brownley, claiming to be Deputy U. S. Marshal of Nashville, Tenn., was arrested yesterday charged with being a dealer in counterfeit money. In his possession was found $3,065 counterfeit U. S. currency.

BROKERS SUED.

Princess Editha Montez has sued Woodhull and Claflin for the recovery of a $3,000 diamond ring and $2,000 in money which she says she deposited with them.

DISAPPEARED.

Republican Nominations—Excitement Concerning the Discovery of a Secret Imprisonment for Eighteen Years.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—The Republican Nominating Conventions met to-day. Benj. Huckle was nominated for Congress in the First District, Chas. O'Neill in the Second, Leonard Myers in the Third, and Wm. D. Kelley in the Fourth. There is a split in the Second District and two conventions were held in one room, the bolters nominating John V. Creeley.

In the Sheriff Convention there was a fierce struggle, desks overturned, chairs broken, etc. Finally the Leeds' men were ousted by the friends of Gen. Bingham. No nomination was effected.

The Judicial nominations were also made to-day.

The struggle in the Sheriff's convention resulted at a late hour in the success of W. R. Leeds over Gen. Bingham, the most prominent of the several candidates.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Great excitement exists here over the discovery of a poor demented creature, named Herrigs, who, it appears, has been secretly imprisoned in the dwelling of his brother Joseph, corner of Fourth and Lombard streets, for eighteen or twenty years. The first information of the horrible affair was communicated to the authorities by a young man living in an adjoining building, who saw a human nose protruding through a knot-hole in a board nailed across a small window in one of the apartments in the Herrigs house, and, hearing a strange noise, an investigation was instituted, which brought to light a most horrible spectacle. On entering a room, five by eight feet, the officers discovered the poor imbecile, seated on a rickety old chair, nearly naked, his only costume being a short petticoat, made of coarse canvass. His nervous system is entirely gone, and all that could be elicited from him was an unmeaning giggle. His reason was entirely dethroned. He was able to walk and move about, and at times seemed to have a vague conception of what was said to him. He stood up, sat down and opened his mouth in an automatic sort of way truly horrible. The apartment was covered with filth and the stench was unbearable, and an old dilapidated sofa and a ricketty chair were the only articles of furniture in the living tomb. From all appearances it is evident that this miserable idiot has lived in his own filth for the almost incredible period of a score of years. He was sent to the alms house. His brother Joseph was arrested, and subsequently released on five thousand dollars bail. Joseph keeps a cigar store in the front part of the house, and is in easy circumstances. One or two of the old neighbors have an indistinct recollection of seeing a feeble minded young man of about twenty years of age about the house over eighteen years ago, since which time he has been missing. When the officers tried to enter the idiot's apartment they were resisted by an old crone of over eighty years of age, who said she was the mother of John. Her daughter, together with those already mentioned, were the only occupants of the house. Joseph is very reticent, and indisposed to throw any light on the case. There are various stories afloat, all of which tend to make the mystery insoluble.

Resignation of Attorney Gen. Hoar—The Correspondence—Appointment to the Vacancy—Horses for Red Cloud and Party—Excitement on the Cuban Question—The Georgia Bill—World's Exhibition at Philadelphia.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, June 16, 1870.

CABINET CHANGE.

Attorney General Hoar has resigned, and the President has nominated in his stead Amos T. Ackerman, of Georgia.

Mr. Ackerman is at present United States Attorney for Georgia. He is a native of New Hampshire, about forty-seven years old, and emigrated to Georgia twenty-five years ago. He studied law with the late Judge Berrier, was originally a Whig and always a strong National man. He opposed secession and was among the earlier members of the Republican party.

JUDGE HOAR AND THE PRESIDENT.

The friendly relations of Judge Hoar and the President have never been interrupted. When recently he tendered his resignation for the first time in writing, the President accepted it, with the intimation as the South had no Judge on the Supreme bench, it seemed fair that section should have a representative in the Cabinet, and therefore inquiries were made as to a suitable successor. The ascertained qualification of Ackerman being satisfactory, he was accordingly nominated to-day to the Senate. Towards the close of the proceedings of that body, this afternoon, an ineffectual motion was made to go into executive session in order that the nomination might be acted upon. This probably will be done to-morrow. Mr. Ackerman has been telegraphed to and is on his way here.

The following correspondence passed between Judge Hoar and the President:

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15th, 1870.

SIR: I resign the office of Attorney General of the United States, the resignation to take effect upon the appointment and qualification of my successor.

Very respectfully,
[Signed.] E. R. HOAR.
To the President.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 15th, 1870.

MY DEAR JUDGE: In accepting your resignation as Attorney General, upon the appointment and qualification of your successor, I take the occasion to express to you my high appreciation of the able, patriotic and devoted manner in which you have performed the functions of that office. In no degree do I fail to appreciate the pleasant personal relations which have existed from the beginning of our association officially in public place. Hoping that you will carry with you nothing but pleasant recollections of your connection with the present Administration, with the assurances of my personal esteem and friendship, I remain,

With great respect,
Your friend and ob'dt. serv't,
[Signed.] U. S. GRANT.
To E. R. Hoar, Att'y. Gen'l.

HORSES FOR RED CLOUD AND PARTY.

The Government authorities have decided to comply with the request made by Red Cloud recently for horses to carry his party home from the terminus of the railroad, and so notified him by telegraph. His reply, received from New York, informs the Commissioner of Indian affairs that the intelligence has made his heart very big and he is now very glad and grateful.

EXCITEMENT ON THE CUBAN QUESTION.

The excitement in the Capital owing to the state of Cuban affairs exceeds anything ever before witnessed. Private assurance of the recast of the whole Cabinet is freely given by the President and ominous hints of impeachment. Butler is emphatically execrated by the Republicans.

CENTENARY OF AMERICAN INDEPENDENCE.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs and Committee on Manufactures of the House left this afternoon for Philadelphia to meet the Committee having in charge the subject of the World's Exhibition of Mechanics and Arts in that city on the centenary of the Declaration of American Independence.

CASE OF GEORGIA.

The Committee on Reconstruction, at a full meeting to-day, confirmed the previous action on the Georgia bill, which omits reference to a new election of members of the Legislature, but provides for organizing and equipping the militia.

CUSTOMS.

The custom receipts last week amounted to $3,346,116.

THE INDIANS.

Premonitions of the Coming War—Pursuit of Hostile Savages in Nebraska.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

OMAHA, June 16.—Fifty Indians crossed the railroad track near Ogalalla station on the night of the 15th. They were pursued by Maj. Wells and a company of 2 cavalry, who captured ten head of horses, all their camp equipage, forty-five packs of robes and a large lot of dressed meats.

FORT MCPHERSON, NEB., June 16.—A party of Indians suddenly appeared at Cottonwood Springs, near Burk's ranche and two miles west of this post, this afternoon. They wounded a citizen who was herding cattle for Mr. Waite, beef contractor. A large party of about one hundred Indians appeared at about the same time at the mouth of Morrow's Canon, seven miles west of here. Two companies of cavalry are in close pursuit from this point.

Late Reports from Cuba.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, June 16.—The World's Havana correspondent writes that another American citizen, a Mr. Joseph Duaney, was seized by the Spanish authorities on the 5th inst., and thrown into prison, and refused permission to communicate with any one outside. He was on his way from Vera Cruz to New York, and had touched at Havana. By the merest accident the news of the outrage reached the ears of Consul General Biddle, and possibly something may be done about it.

The execution of Cubans convicted of disloyalty continue throughout the island. Two insurgent recruiting officers in the Sagua district were hunted down with blood hounds and captured. One of them, named Terra, was so badly bitten and mangled by the dogs that when he was executed he was unable to stand, and was obliged to receive the fatal bullets while sitting on a chair.

A rumor prevailed at Havana that Valmaseda had been routed and killed near Bayamas.

Late News from Mexico.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CITY OF MEXICO, via Havana, June 16.—The National Congress adjourned on the 31st of May. President Juarez, in closing his message, says the revolutionists in San Luis Potosi and Zacatecas have been reduced to petty bands, and measures taken by the government, in co-operation with Congress, which will prove of great benefit to the country in future.

The earthquake on the 18th of May was felt at Tabasco. All the churches and nearly all the private dwellings at Mahutia were thrown to the ground by the shock. Near Perchutta the roads were rendered impassable. Rocks fell from the mountain sides and filled them up. The loss of life is larger than was at first estimated.

New gold mines had been discovered near Jalapa.

The Custom House at Mazatlan has embargoed the property of Henry Brooks, an American, who refuses to pay exhorbitant port duties.

Encouraging Account of Illinois Crops.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, June 16.—Reports from all parts of the State represent the crop prospects as good. The dry weather of May and the early part of June was detrimental to grass and small grains, but the recent rains have considerably improved appearances, and farmers now look for an average yield. Wheat is now heading out in the northern and central portions of the State. Oats and rye are rather thin, but look healthy and promise a fair yield. The chintz bug has made its appearance in several localities, but not in sufficient numbers to cause serious apprehension. Corn is coming forward finely since the recent rains. Potatoes are suffering somewhat from potato bugs. Fruits of all kinds promise a rather meagre yield, although in some localities an average crop is anticipated.

TERRIBLE DEATH.

Knocked from a Car—A Brakeman Killed.

Yesterday morning, about half past four o'clock, William Funk, a brakesman on a freight train drawn by engine 469, coming west on the Pennsylvania Railroad, was knocked from the train near East Liberty and run over. He was walking on top of a car when the train approached the bridge, and although warned of his danger, replied that he would "look out for number one." He was missed by the conductor after the train had passed, and a search revealed his mangled remains lying on the track, over which the cars had passed. The wheels passed over his skull, crushing it to a jelly. The body was taken to the railroad boarding house, Lawrenceville, and his friends in Connellsville notified. He was unmarried and about twenty-five years of age. Coroner Clawson will hold an inquest.

EPISCOPAL.

The Diocesan Convention—Further Consideration of Reports—Resolutions of Thanks—Closing up Business—Final Adjournment.

MORNING SESSION.

The third day's session of the Protestant Episcopal Church, Diocese of Pittsburgh commenced yesterday morning at nine o'clock.

After divine service, which occupied half an hour, the minutes of the preceding meeting were read and approved.

Dr. Norman was then elected to fill the vacancy in the Board of Missions, occasioned by the resignation of Mr. R. S. Golden.

The report of the Committee on Unfinished Business, with the following matters: Report of the Committee on By-Laws, supplementary to the new Charter; the report of the Committee on Education; the report of the Committee on Canons; the report of the Committee on State of the Church.

Report received and Committee discharged.

The report of the Committee on Missions was read and ordered to be printed.

The report of the Committee on Education was accepted and the Committee continued.

The Rev. Mr. Karcher rose to inquire if the resolution in the last Journal in reference to the change of the name "Convention" was not unfinished business. The chair decided that the resolution having been postponed one year, was no longer unfinished business.

The Rev. Mr. Karcher in appealing from the decision of the chair, was called to order for the use of unparliamentary language.

The decision of the chair was then sustained.

The Rev. Mr. Spaulding presented the report of the Committee on the State of the Church, which was read and ordered to be printed. The following resolutions, presented by the committee, were adopted.

Resolved, That the Committee on the State of the Church be continued, that they may prepare with accuracy the tabular reports for the Journal, and also make such modifications and improvements in the form of parochial reports as experience may suggest, said form of report to be printed.

Resolved, That the officers of the charitable and educational institutions within the Diocese be requested to make annual reports to the Bishop, to be read before the Convention.

Resolved, That the form of certificate of election of the deputies be referred to the Committee on the State of the Church, that they may make it conform to the Constitution and Canons of the Diocese.

Mr. Lynch, from the same committee, read a tabular statement of the condition of the church, as a part of the report.

PAROCHIAL REPORTS.

The Rev. Dr. Killikelly moved that the Convention return to the practice adopted in the first Journal of 1865, in reference to the printing of Parochial Reports.

The Rev. Mr. Karcher moved that no Rector be allowed to occupy more than half a page of the Journal with his Parochial report. Lost.

The Rev. Mr. Slattery moved to limit them to twelve lines. Lost.

The first motion of Dr. Killikelly was then carried.

The Rev. Mr. Smith moved that the form of Parochial report be modified according to the discretion of the Committee on the State of the Church. Carried.

The report of the Committee on Form of Charter, &c, was again taken up as it had been left at adjournment on Wednesday evening.

On motion of Mr. Howe, the directions for the formation of a new Parish were adopted.

The remainder of the session was occupied by the discussion upon the adoption of the charter.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention assembled at the appointed hour, Bishop Kerfoot in the chair, and was opened with devotional exercises.

REGISTRAR'S REPORT.

The Rev. R. S. Smith, the Registrar of the Diocese, presented his annual report, as follows:

The Registrar begs leave to report to the Convention that during the past year he has received for permanent record a detailed account of the moneys received and expended by the Treasurer of the Episcopal Fund; also a narrative of the founding and growth of the church at Sugar Hill, Jefferson county.

As the necessities of the Diocese require that the books and valuable papers in the hands of the Registrar be deposited in a place at once safe and accessible to the Bishop, Standing Committee and officers of the Diocese, the present Registrar respectfully desires to resign his office, in the hope that some one will be elected who will be able to comply with the conditions above indicated.

The report was received. In the judgment of the Convention there was no necessity for a change in the Registrar, and the request of that officer to be relieved from the office was not complied with.

The consideration of the report of the Committee on form of Charter, etc., was then resumed. During the discussion the Bishop, who was Chairman of the Committee, took the floor to explain the paper, the Rev. Mr. Smith occupying the chair.

After considerable discussion and some amendments the Charter was finally adopted. The By-laws were next taken up.

The By-Laws, as read, were adopted, together with the accompanying resolution, recommending the use of the form of a charter, directions for the formation of a new parish, and the By-Laws.

COMPLIMENTARY.

The Bishop, before assuming the chair, presented the following:

Resolved, That the thanks of this Convention are especially due, and are hereby heartily given to Malcolm Hay, Esq., Treasurer of the Episcopal Fund and of the Diocese, for the very thorough and efficient management of the trust committed to him.

The Bishop in offering the resolution paid a cordial tribute to the energy, efficiency and faithfulness with which Mr. Hay had performed his duties, and said he felt like offering the resolution if it would have any greater weight in commending an officer who gave time and talents to his trust, and more than justified the confidence reposed in him.

The resolution was adopted.

THE EPISCOPAL FUND.

Mr. Hay presented a plan for the endowment of the Episcopal Fund, which was ordered to be printed in the Journal and to lay over until the next Convention.

THE BISHOP'S CHARGE.

The Rev. Mr. Scarborough said the Convention had listened with great pleasure and profit to the charge of the Bishop—the first ever delivered to the Convention. He therefore moved that five hundred extra copies be printed and given to the Bishop for distribution, in addition to the usual number distributed by the Convention. The mover would be proud to have such a document go out as the express declarations of the head of the Diocese.

The motion was unanimously adopted.

The Secretary called attention to a proposed amendment to the General Constitution, which was read for the information of the Convention, but no action required.

The Rev. Mr. Scarborough moved that the clergy attending the Convention from a distance be refunded the attendant traveling expenses. Adopted.

RESOLUTIONS OF THANKS.

Mr. Lynch offered a resolution providing for the payment of one hundred and fifty dollars to the Rev. R. J. Coster, for his services as Secretary of the Convention.

The gentleman named declined with thanks the intended compensation and the resolution was resolved into a vote of thanks to the Secretary, the Rev. R. J. Coster, and his assistant, the Rev. T. L. Bellam, for their efficiency, which was unanimously adopted.

The Rev. Mr. Hartman offered a resolution providing for the printing of seven hundred copies of the Journal. Carried.

A resolution instructing the Treasurer to pay the sexton of the church $15 for the three days' session was carried.

Thanks were also tendered to the Rev. John Scarborough, of Trinity church for his able opening sermon before the Convention and to the Rector, Wardens and Vestry, of St. Peters church for the use of the church, and also to the choir of the same.

THE RIGHTS OF MINORITIES.

The Rev. Mr. Karcher called up his proposed amendment to the rules which would allow the minority a voice in the decision of the questions considered, by allowing cumulative voting—that is, allowing each delegate when voting for officers and standing Committee &c., to center all the votes he is entitled to upon one nominee instead of being compelled to scatter them and deposit only one vote for each nominee, for any office.

The gentleman in supporting his resolution referred to the fact that many who should attend and take an interest in the proceedings of the Convention did not because they were satisfied they could have no voice in what was accomplished. There were two parties in the Church, the High and Low Church,—

He was here interrupted by a call to order. Continuing, he spoke of the "two sides" in the Church, and said that if one of these, the minority, was recognized, the members thereof would attend the Conventions. He thought this minority had rights and should have something to say in the proceedings. Voting was the most important and final action and in this they had no control—the majority could always override them no matter on what question. This rule had been adopted in the New Jersey Diocese, and he believed it would work well in the Pittsburgh.

The Rev. John Scarborough opposed the resolution. He had been a member of the Diocese for three years and knew of no parties, or anything of that kind. He hoped that nothing like the resolution would be allowed to obtrude upon the harmony of the Convention. He would oppose it and all similar matters, always. He did not think there was any danger of majorities trespassing upon the rights of minorities.

The resolution was then laid on the table.

Resolutions of thanks were passed relating to the hospitalities tendered by the entertainers of the delegates to the visitors; to the members of the Committee on Canons for their labors, and to the representatives of the press.

The minutes of the day's proceedings were then read and approved, Dr. Page being called to the chair.

Business being over, the Bishop, who had assumed his Episcopal robes, stepped forward and addressed the Convention in a few brief but tender and loving

CLOSING WORDS.

He said at the close of another Convention it was his desire to say nothing which might seem trite or unreal, for the feeling which possessed him was very real. In discharging the duties of President of the Convention, not always of a pleasant character, he had aimed to be true and upright and kind, and if offense had been given to any, he sincerely hoped it would be forgiven and forgotten. He might not ever again be permitted to meet with them. Some who were present at the last gathering were now no more, and some would doubtless be with others in the time to come. Then should they all part in [illegible] and love and Christian feeling as b[illegible] and workers together in the one great c[illegible] In parting with them at the close of the Fifth Annual Convention, it was his peculiar joy to say that he felt more love for the work every day he was in it. It was a glorious privilege, and yet a high and solemn responsibility, to labor and hope and rejoice in the work of the Lord and see the salvation of souls. His earnest prayer was that the Great Head of the Church might guide and direct the work and counsels that His name might be glorified and abundantly honored.

The work in the Diocese during the year had been one of great encouragement. It had been gaining strength and great good had been done. Yet more earnestness was needed for the future, and it should be the prayer of all that to each might be vouchsafed more love for Christ and greater zeal for His cause. He affectionately urged upon them the duty of each doing his part with more self-denial, more cheerful trust, and greater faith, that God might, to the fullest extent, extend his blessing to the utmost limit of the Diocese. The feeling should be one of unity and love and sympathy. These feelings were gaining ground, and it was his earnest desire that they might continue to increase, that the work might prosper, until all toil was given up and exchanged for the blessings of eternal rest.

These few farewell words were listened to with the most earnest attention, many of the members manifesting deep emotion which attested the spirit of esteem and love with which the affectionate and tender exhortation was received. At the close after a minute's impressive silence, the evening service was read and the Convention adjourned sine die.

SPECIAL THANKS.

The Rev. Mr. Hartman moved that a special vote of thanks be tendered the editors and proprietors of the GAZETTE for publishing in full the Bishop's address, and for the accurate report of the proceedings of the Convention during the session, which appeared in their journal.

The gentleman in making the motion said it was the feeling of himself as well as all the members of the Convention that some special note should be taken of this action on the part of the GAZETTE.

The motion was seconded, but the Chairman decided it out of order as the minutes had been read, which closed up business, according to a previous motion, which had been carried.

RAILROAD EXCURSION.

Departure of Excursionists from Pittsburgh—Arrival at Natrona—Freeport Junction—Brady's Bend and Venango City.

After visiting most of the principal manufacturing establishments in the two cities and Birmingham, the railroad excursionists took their departure from the Union Depot on Thursday morning at 7 o'clock precisely, in the same suite of cars in which they came over the mountains, and drawn by the same engine, which was manipulated in excellent style by J. Westfall, the train being under the conductorship of H. P. Dunbar.

The distinguished visitors expressed their great astonishment at the magnitude of the manufacturing establishments of Pittsburgh. Many of them had visited the "Smoky City" before, but they had not formed any adequate conception of the greatness and importance of its manufactures. A personal inspection convinced them that Pittsburgh is destined to be one of the greatest cities in the Union, as to material wealth and prosperity.

The excursionists were joined in Pittsburgh by Captain J. T. Chalfant, of the firm of Chalfant, Graff & Co., dealers in oil tools at Parker's Landing. Capt. Chalfant showed himself to be a brave soldier during the war; and many of our readers will remember the long days of anxiety which his friends had in relation to his safety. He is now engaged prosperously in business, and his presence on the train was hailed with delight by the excursionists.

The train bearing the party backed over the magnificent iron bridge of the P., F. W. & C. R. W. to the Western Pennsylvania Railroad, and proceeded up that important thoroughfare, which is a branch of the P. R. R., to Natrona, where it stopped for an hour to allow the party to visit the extensive works of the Pennsylvania Salt manufacturing Company, the buildings of which cover twenty-five acres of ground. The company have an invested capital to the amount of one million dollars. They employ five hundred hands, and their annual sales amount to a million and a half. An extensive description of these important works has appeared on several occasions in the GAZETTE, and it is unnecessary to reproduce it here.

In the absence of Henry Pemberton, Esq., the General Superintendent, the visitors were conducted through the vast establishment by Mr. Clifford Pemberton, the General Agent, and Mr. John Jahler, the Chemist of the Company, gave a minute and satisfactory explanation of the process of manufacturing the different articles, for which it has now become famous. All seemed to be greatly interested. Commissioner Delano listened with great attention to the explanations of the chemist, and gave expression to his high satisfaction, and the importance of the establishment to the country.

The train proceeded to the W. P. Junction, where it was met by J. J. Lawrence, Esq., General Superintendent, and Thomas M. King, Esq., Assistant Superintendent of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, and Col. W. D. Slack, Superintendent of the Brady's Bend Iron Works. After backing round the Y, the train was "square" on the track of the Allegheny Valley Railroad, and was soon in motion up that road of substantial construction and easy grades. The speed attained on this road was about as much as our weak nerves could bear. The train whirled around the enormous bends almost with the velocity of lightning. But the officers have such confidence in it that they assured us they could run at a higher rate of speed with perfect safety.

The train halted for few minutes at Bradys Bend and the excursionists surveyed with the eye as best they could, the iron works on the opposite bank of the river.

When the train halted opposite Parkers Landing, the strangers on board were filled with amazement. There there is a perfect forest of derricks on the brink of the river, and the most elevated points of the hills. Most of the wells are yielding moderately.

Short stops were made at Graham's Landing, Foxburgh and other places, and the wells, whether yielding or not, were examined with deep interest by those who had never seen oil wells before.

So excellent and complete were the arrangements made by Messrs. Cassatt, Pitcairn and Creighton of the P. R. R., and Messrs. Lawrence and King of the A. V. R. R., that the time on the special schedule was made to a minute at every point. Of course it is unnecessary to say that every one is intensely delighted.

The train arrived at Venango city at 1:40 Thursday afternoon.

FRIDAY, JUNE 17, 1870.

BONDS at Frankfort, 96@96¼.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp, quiet

GOLD closed in New York on yesterday at 113¼.

THE probable failure of the French harvest excites some speculation in our grain markets. The upward movement is the more buoyant, since prices have heretofore ruled very low, and everybody seems to have been waiting for an inevitable advance.

IT is much more satisfactory not to know anything of the new Attorney General Ackerman, than to know too much of an ex-Attorney General of Pennsylvania, who wanted, but did not get, the Federal office. We would rather have the unknown than the known.

THE Georgia bill should have been reported yesterday, and with the proviso against any Federal interference with the regular election next autumn, under the State Constitution. If the Committee have failed to insert that provision, we trust the House will not fail to supply it.

WE HAVE NOT heard of any one who has signed Brigham's call for a bolt; but we have heard of several who were said to be on it who were yesterday busy in denying that they had signed it. Judging from the eagerness with which the denial was made it would seem that the company is not too numerous to be considered select.

LAST YEAR the Commercial boasted, in the most extravagant terms, after our county nominations were over, that it had succeeded in smashing the "ring," and that the nominations were a complete triumph for that sheet and its supporters. Is that the reason why a new party is now necessary to reform the abuses alleged to have grown up in the Republican ranks?

OUR ADVICES from various parts of the county are to the effect that the honest Republicans of Old Allegheny have not been inveigled to any extent in the disorganizing scheme to get up a party without a cause. The men who stood by LINCOLN and GRANT have too much regard for their principles to throw away the certainty of success upon the pretense that such a step is necessary to sustain them.

THE call for the third party Convention was very industriously, although very quietly, circulated for signatures, but was published without any. If it was not necessary to have signatures to give validity to the call, why circulate it? If it was necessary, why publish the call without them? Was it because the signatures were so few or so insignificant that the intriguing managers of the bolt omitted them? Certainly if they had the backing they boast of having they would not have been slow in showing it.

THE MANAGERS of the Brigham bolt justify themselves on the plea that it is necessary in order to break up "rings," and all that sort of thing. In other words, they are themselves unable to manage the party in their own special interest, and therefore propose, by getting up a new party, to form a "ring" of their own, and thus be able, hereafter, to control nominations to their own liking. They want to make a "ring" to break up some other "ring," existing only in their own imagination. Their proposition, stripped of all disguises, is to form a party within our party for the purpose of controlling our party action.

OREGON had a Democratic State Government last year. It elects the ticket of the same party this year by a very considerably reduced majority. The last Legislature was Democratic by seventeen majority on joint ballot; in the next Legislature, the same party will have a majority of not more than eight. This is not much of a Democratic victory. Moreover, it suggests a pertinent inquiry. The convention which nominated the ticket now successful, endorsed in its platform the policy of repudiation. Query? Was the reduced majority of the party at the recent election due to that endorsement, or in spite of it?

THE same complaints were made last year that are now embodied in the call for the third party; yet, in spite of the alleged existence of the causes for these complaints, the Commercial boasted it had defeated all who were obnoxious to the complainants. This triumph of that virtuous paper was achieved within the party and through the regular party machinery. The "ring," it shouted, were beaten then, "horse, foot and dragoons," through the very agency by which the "ring" expected to succeed. How, then, if the men who cause all these complaints, are so easily beaten within the party machinery, does it become neccessary to get up a new party to do the same work?

IT is estimated at the Treasury Department that the amount of decrease in receipts from duties, under the House tax and tariff bill now before the Senate, would be about $25,300,000. The reductions caused by the abated taxes in the internal revenue part of the bill are estimated, upon the basis of last year, at not less than $52,000,000. The total loss to the Treasury would therefore reach over seventy-seven millions of dollars, if the House bill shall become a law. Practically, that would put an end, for the present, to everything like redemption of the debt. Would this satisfy our tax-paying citizens? Of course, the Democracy will agree to it with complacent promptitude.

THE following is a synopsis of the Petroleum Producers' Report for May: At the close of the month there were 99,541 barrels of oil on hand in the oil regions, being an increase of 1,248 since April; 407,908 barrels were delivered from the wells during the month, being an increase over April of 7,905. The amount produced during the month was 409,569 barrels, an increase over the production of April of 40,741 barrels. 13,211 was the average daily production, being an increased average of 917. There are 443 new wells being drilled, 150 commenced during the month. 162 were completed during the month, 91 abandoned, and 30 old wells were resumed. 282,682 barrels of oil are stored in iron tanks, which is 1,042,755 barrels less than their capacity.

THE MEN who have got up the call for a party within the Republican party, allege that the failure to establish the Crawford county system in making our county nominations has left them no other alternative. It is the delegate system, and its manifest imperfections, which they want to have abolished. If that were but given them, so they could have some show at the primary meetings, they would not think of getting up a bolt. And yet, their very first step is a resort to (what they call) the corrupt delegate system! When they were issuing their call it would have been easy for them to establish for themselves the Crawford county system; why, then, did they not do it? How does it come that, with both systems before them, they deliberately chose the delegate system? If it is good enough for them why is it not good enough for others? If it is "corrupt" in the hands of the people who have stood by the Republican party since 1856, what is to keep it pure in the hands of the politicians who have made this new venture? How can they ask us to establish the Crawford county system when they deliberately set it aside, and proceed to call, for their own pet uses, a delegate convention?

ATTORNEY GENERAL HOAR has resigned his official trust, and leaves the Cabinet. His successor, Amos T. Ackerman, of Georgia, was promptly nominated to the Senate. Without pausing to enquire who Amos T. Ackerman, of Georgia, is—for we take it for granted that he is a citizen of at least fair professional attainments and of soundly loyal antecedents—we should be unjust to the occasion, if we omitted to acknowledge the very high claims of the retiring law officer upon the confidence of the country, and the respect of the Republican people. Mr. HOAR had personal foibles, entirely in his manner, and habitually exhibited in his professional career before he entered the Cabinet, which stood much in the way of his personal or even official influence with the party and the people. But none have ventured to question his legal qualifications, his intellectual abilities, the sincerity of his political convictions, or the purity of his character. Always, he has done just that which he thought right, regardless of the popular idea. This may have been a grave fault in a public man, but it is certainly a very rare one. Had he been more complaisant, for example, in his intercourse with Senators, especially in regard to the appointments which depended upon his bureau, he would have been confirmed in the seat upon the Bench to which the President nominated him some months ago. We respect his courage in declining, as he did, thus to be forced by that studied slight into a resignation of his portfolio, and we honor his sense of self-respect in resigning now, after a decent interval of time. The President retains in his Cabinet much more adroit politicians, and men equally capable, but none who could command a more confiding and respectful regard from the country.

FRESH DISTURBANCES.

As the Currency bill passed the House, its terms provide for an expansion of nearly fifty millions in the paper circulation of the country. An issue of ninety-five millions of national bank notes is authorized, forty-five and a half millions of which are to be exchanged for the three-per-cent certificates to that amount still outstanding, and the residue will be a clear addition to our paper currency. As the bill was first reported, it would have required the withdrawal of an amount equal to four-fifths of the new issue of greenbacks, keeping the total volume of the currency nearly unchanged. But the limitation was struck out by the House, and the bill goes to the Senate for its approval. We trust, with some confidence, that this concurrence will be refused. The country does not want contraction, and an inflation of the currency is certainly not what the interest of the people really needs. It would constitute a fresh departure in the direction opposite to specie resumption, and would of necessity be fatal to the plans of Mr. Boutwell, and the wish of the country, for the refunding of the debt at a lower rate of interest. For gold will go up, that is, the paper currency will again depreciate, and that must have the effect to postpone a successful refunding indefinitely.

The country has now pretty nearly reached the lowest possible values for its property of all descriptions. To this state of things we have really come because we have already discounted in advance that resumption of cash payments which would have taken effect ere this date, if there had been no session of Congress since December last; or if that session had closed with the passage of the Senate funding bill. Since March, the influence of Congressional debates, delays and impracticability, has been clearly to keep up the gold premium, and to obstruct the natural course of our financial affairs, which would have led us in fact to the results which are thus discounted on every description of values except that of gold itself. Congress has not kept up the prices of agricultural products, or of lands, or of the fabrics of domestic industry. It has not made money plenty. It has not given the slightest alleviations to the people. It has given us all the concomitants of cash resumption, without the resumption itself which would at once have opened a way in the direction of our only legitimate relief.

This was bad enough, but the bill just passed by the House will make the situation still worse, since it commits the country to another inflation of fictitious values, blowing up another bubble to be again punctured by and bye, and subjecting the business of the people to a repetition of the paralytic stroke from which we have been suffering for twelve months past.

Standing where this business has stood since the opening of this session, it is the acme of short-sighted folly for Congress to interrupt the natural course of events, by such efforts to inaugurate a reaction against a downward movement which has really attained its lowest possible point. We have stood where we had everything to gain and nothing to lose by consummating an actual resumption. Under the policy of this currency bill, we have everything to lose and nothing to gain. We are not willing to believe that the Senate can lend its approval to a most needless and mischievous step.

THE NEW PARTY "CALL."

ALLEGHENY CITY, June 16, 1870.

EDITORS GAZETTE: I read in yesterday's Commercial a call for a new party convention to nominate a ticket for the fall election. This call not being signed, I supposed it a Democratic joke at the expense of Republicans, or the work of a "Sore head," with a view to create division in the Republican ranks, and thus satisfy a revengeful spirit, engendered through disappointed aspirations. This morning's Commercial confirms my belief that the latter supposition is the correct one. It shows the cloven foot, giving Republicans to understand the "reform" ring are again bent on mischief.

I have been asked by several temperance men, who knew me to have been one of Mr. Dickey's most ardent supporters last fall, whether the temperance wing of the Republican party had originated this "new party" movement, and answered them that such was not the fact. If it were, I think I should know it. The time has not yet come, any reason for such a step does not yet exist, and this move, thus prematurely made, ostensibly in the interest of "temperance reform," is proof satisfactory that the real object is as foreshadowed in the Commercial. True temperance men, of Republican antecedents, will not be thus led by broken down politicians, ring-masters, or whatever other name political "usage" might justify me in using to designate the men I believe to have caused to be issued the anonymous, bogus call referred to.

The temperance men are not yet complaining, but are patiently awaiting the action of the August Convention, and confidently hoping that unobjectionable men will be selected as candidates for the offices to be filled. The "call" put forth and championed as it has been, has stimulated them, if any thing, in this desire, in order that the Republican party may present an united front, and put to shame and confusion designing disorganizers, by defeating their schemes for mere personal gratification.

I am a temperance man, holding that no man of intemperate habits should be elected to office, and last year worked for Dickey in the ward of our city that give him a larger majority than any other district in the county, but I am not of the malcontents who are always to be found crying out against "rings," "corruption," &c., for no other purpose than to stimulate dissatisfaction in the ranks of the dominant party.

Assuring you, Messrs. Editors, that temperance men are innocent of this revived reform movement, I am yours,

ALLEGHENY.

POWDER, PAINT AND DYES.

A Chemist's Analysis--Mercury, Corrosive Sublimate and Lead--Enamels, Powders, and Hair Restoratives.

The last number of the Chemical News contains a remarkable report on "Poisonous Cosmetics," which will no doubt be read with a great deal of interest. In December last, Dr. Lewis A. Sayre, of New York, enclosed to Dr. Harris, Superintendent of the Metropolitan District, a pamphlet, in which he described three cases of lead palsy produced by Laird's Bloom of Youth. This communication was laid before the Board of Health, together with notes from Dr. Harris and Sanitary Inspector Dr. Janes, in which attention was called to the great variety and large quantities of poisonous hair dyes, commonly called hair restoratives, etc., consisting essentially of acetate of lead, and enamels consisting of carbonate of lead which were sold in the Metropolitan district.

The board at once directed their chemist, Prof. C. F. Chandler, of the School of Mines, Columbia College, to investigate the subject, and the substance of his report, fully confirming the opinions of the physicians, is given below. It will be seen that the proprietor of Laird's Bloom of Youth, in order to evade the consequences of the investigation, had substituted oxide of zinc for the sugar of lead which it formerly contained.

REPORT OF PROF. C. F. CHANDLER.

In response to the resolution of the Board, directing "the chemist to examine the various hair tonics, washes, cosmetics, and other toilet preparations in general use, and to report what ingredients, if any, they contain of a character injurious or dangerous to those who use them," I beg leave to submit the following report of the results thus far reached. My examination has been specially directed to the mineral poisons; no tests have been as yet made for vegetable or animal substances, as, for example, cantharides, which I have reason to believe is sometimes employed.

The articles which I have examined may be classed as:

I. Hair tonics, washes and restoratives.
II. Lotions for the skin.
III. Enamels.
IV. White powders for the skin.

I. HAIR TONICS, WASHES AND RESTORATIVES.

Of these, sixteen have been examined, and, with but one exception, all have been found to contain lead, generally in the form of acetate or sugar of lead.

[We omit the details of the analysis, being too long for our columns, and subjoin the Professor's recapitulation.]

Only one of this class of preparations (Hoyt's Hiawatha Hair Restorative) is free from lead, which metal seems indeed to be the essential constituent in most cases. Most of the sediments observed in the bottles, and which require that the bottle "be well shaken," etc., consists of sulphur, which it is intended shall ultimately unite with the lead to produce the dark colored sulphide of lead, or, as one of the manufacturers has it, "the original youthful beauty and color." The following tabular statement shows how the poisonous hair nostrums compare among themselves:

Grains of Lead in one fluid ounce.
1. Clark's Distilled Restorative for the Hair	0.11
2. Chevalier's Life for the Hair	1.02
3. Circassian Hair Rejuvenator	2.71
4. Ayer's Hair Vigor	2.89
5. Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative	3.08
6. Dr. J. J. O'Brien's Hair Restorative of America	3.28
7. Gray's Celebrated Hair Restorative	3.39
8. Phalon's Vitalia	4.69
9. Ring's Vegetable Ambrosia	5.00
10. Mrs. S. A. Allen's World Hair Restorer	5.57
11. L. Knittel's Indian Hair Tonique	6.29
12. Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer	7.13
13. Dr. Tebbett's Phsycological Hair Regenerator	7.44
14. Martha Washington's Hair Restorative	9.80
15. Singer's Hair Restorative	16.39

II. LOTIONS OR WASHES FOR THE COMPLEXIONS.

Prof. Chandler enumerates the following, which do not show any trace of lead or injurious metals: Burnett's Kalliston, Phalon's Paphian Lotion or Floral Beautifier, Enamel of America, Email de Paris de Jared, and Balm of a Thousand Flowers. An analysis of Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion, a colorless liquid, with a little white sediment, showed a fluid ounce to contain:

	grs.
Mercury in solution	2.67
Zinc in solution	0.99
Equivalent to Corrosive Sublimate	3.61
Sulphate of Zinc (crystalized)	4.25

III. ENAMALS FOR THE SKIN.

The sediment contains a little mercury, lead and bismuth.

The Enamels consist of white powders suspended in clear liquids; on standing the powders subside, but agitation quickly incorporates them with the liquids.

Again: The following contains lead mostly, if not entirely, in the form of carbonate; they are therefore simply "white lead" ground in water.

Grains of Lead in one fluid ounce after shaking.
Eugenie's favorite	108.94
Phalon's snow white enamel	146.28
Phalon's snow white Oriental cream	190.99

The following contain no injurious metals: Balm of white lilies. Dr. Bradford's enameline for the complexion. Hagan's magnolia balm, Laird's Bloom of youth or liquid pearl.

IV. WHITE POWDERS FOR THE SKIN.

The white powders consist of carbonate of lime, carbonate of magnesia, clay or French chalk; either singly or mixed. John Irvine's compound of Chinese tablet of alabaster, consists of carbonate of lime; Bazin's superior lily white consists of carbonate of lime and carbonate of magnesia; Wright's cascarilla de caracol de Persia, consists of carbonate of lime and some earthy matter insoluable in acids, either clay or "French chalk;" the original tablet of alabaster or lily white cosmetic, consists of carbonate of lime with, some clay or "French chalk;" Bismuth powder for beautyfiying the skin and removing freckles, consists of carbonate of lime, with much clay or "French chalk;" Livel's lily white and rose bloom, consists of clay or "French chalk."

From these facts Prof. Chandler concludes:

1. The hair tonics, washes and restoratives, contain lead in considerable quantities; that they owe their action to this metal, and that they are consequently highly dangerous to the health of persons using them.

2. With a single exception. Perry's moth and freckle lotion, which contains corrosive sublimate, the lotions for the skin are free from lead and other injurious metals.

3. That the enamels are composed of either carbonate of lime, oxide of zinc, or carbonate of lead, suspended in water. The first two classes of enamels are comparatively harmless, as harmless as any other white dirt when plastered over the skin to close the pores and prevent its healthy action. On the other hand, the enamels composed of carbonate of lead are highly dangerous, and their use is very certain to produce disastrous results to those who patronize them.

4. The white powders for the skin are harmless, except in so far as their application may interfere with the heatlhy action of the skin.

THE visit of Mr. Thomas Carlyle to this country is said to have particular reference to private business affairs rather than anything else. "Sartor Resartus," as the story goes, made some American investments two or three years ago, which are turning out profitable, and it is to look after these that he is now coming to New York. Another report is, that a distinguished clergyman from Brooklyn has tendered him the hospitalities of his house during his stay.

Iron and Steel Production in 1869.

From the fifth annual report of Mr Henry McAllister, Jr., Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association, the Philadelphia Ledger has condensed the following interesting facts, in reference to the manufacture of iron and steel, during the year 1869. The report, after referring to the efforts made by the association in reference to the question of tariff, sets forth that "in the States north and east of Pennsylvania, the production of Anthracite iron, in 1869, was 269,256 tons, as follows: New Jersey, 54,201 tons; New York, 210,855; Massachusetts, 4,200.

The production of anthracite iron in these States has arisen from 64,969 tons in 1864, to the quantity above given.

The production of anthracite pig iron in Pennsylvania in 1869, was 692,739 tons. Of this quantity 300,916 tons was made in the Lehigh region; 150,409 tons in the Schuylkill region; 123,273 tons in the Upper Susquehanna, and 118,141 tons in the Lower Susquehanna. This product exceeds by 20,784 tons, or 3.09 per cent., that of 1868, or 36¼ per cent., that of 1867. Within the past three years 14 furnaces have been erected in the Lehigh region, increasing its capacity about 140,000 tons. The following shows the whole product of anthracite pig iron in Pennsylvania for the past eight years: In 1862, 370,304 tons; 1863, 433,072 do.; 1864, 519,690 do.; 1865, 377,443 do.; 1866, 573,759 do.; 1867, 594,270 do.; 1868, 671,955 do.; 1869, 692,739 tons.

The total product of anthracite pig iron in the United States in 1869 was as follows:

Massachusetts	4,206	tons.
New York	210,855	"
New Jersey	54,201	"
Pennsylvania	692,739	"
Maryland	9,155	"
Total	971,150	"

The production of bituminous coal and coke, pig iron, in 1869, amounted to 553,341 tons, an increase of 213,341 tons or 62.74 per cent; over that 1868. Of the whole amount about 250,000 tons of this class of pig iron were made in Pennsylvania.

In 1854 the production of bituminous and coke iron was 54,485 tons, since which the average annual increase has been 54¼ per cent. The progress made by this branch of business in several localities during the past few years is very great. In 1864 there were eleven furnaces of this class in the Shenango valley, Pa., the oldest of which was erected in 1844. During the five following years to 1869, inclusive, there were erected ten additional anthracite furnaces, having a capacity of 85,000 to 95,000 tons. During the same time three charcoal furnaces were built in the valley with a capacity of 8,000 tons.

The production of charcoal iron in 1869 amounted to 392,150 tons, as follows:

New England States	38,000	tons.
N. Y., N. J., Penna. and Md.	134,000	"
Western States	206,500	"
Southern States	13,650	"

This quantity exceeds by 22,150 tons, or about 6 per cent. the product of 1866.

The product of the rail mills of the country during the year 1869 was as follows:

Massachusetts	32,238	tons of 2000 lbs
New York	79,463	do.	do.
Pennsylvania	319,653	do.	do.
Maryland	27,328	do.	do.
Ohio	41,837	do.	do.
Kentucky	7,817	do.	do.
Michigan	6,885	do.	do.
Illinois	53,261	do.	do.
Wisconsin	8,680	do.	do.
Other States	16,424	do.	do.
Total	593,586	do.	do.

During 1869, the rails imported from Great Britain amounted to 336,500 tons, an increase of 36,340 tons, as compared with 1868.

The product of the rolling mills other than rails, for 1869, was 642,420 tons, as follows:

Merchant, bar and rod	292,500	tons
Sheet	36,320	"
Plate	78,000	"
Hoop	17,200	"
Nails and spikes	146,400	"
Axles and other	72,000	"

The product of the forges and "bloomeries" in 1869 was 69,500 tons; of steel of all kinds, 35,200 tons.

End of a Desperado--He Murders a Spaniard and Indian, but is Hunted Down and Shot.

A correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin, under date of Timber Cove, Sonoma county, June 1st, writes:

For some weeks past there has been considerable excitement hereabouts, owing to the adventures of a well known desperado, of several aliases, the last being that of Granville, or as he is known about here, Friday Granville. It appears that he wished to gain possession of a mountain ranch a few miles away, and concluded the surer way would be to dispatch the owner, a Spaniard. So arming himself with a double barrelled shot-gun, heavily charged with buckshot, he came upon him as he was reading in his cabin, and killed him instantly, by firing one charge into his breast, and the other through his head after he had fallen to the floor, leaving him horribly mangled.

An Indian who witnessed the deed and reported the same to the friends of the murdered man, was shot by him a few days afterwards as he was passing quietly along the road. The men who happened to be near by were threatened with certain death if they revealed his crime. To cap the climax of recklessness he immediately took possession of the cabin, ranch and even the stock of the Spaniard, claiming that he had bought and paid for them.

In short, the citizens were so exasperated by his many misdeeds, of which these are only a sample, that they were on the point of turning out en masse, and inflicting summary justice with a stout rope and limb of the nearest tree, but at last wisely decided to let the law take its course. Accordingly our newly elected constable, Joseph Price, accompanied by a few peace loving citizens, called upon him early on the morning of the 27th inst., and invited him to surrender. Instead of complying he opened the door a few inches and fired his revolver full in the face of Mr. Price, the bullet grazing his hat. After firing several shots he broke from the house and made for the timber close by, but was brought down, at a distance of about seventy five yards, by a well-directed fire from the constable and his party. He expired almost instantly. An inquest was held and a verdict rendered in accordance with the above facts. Much credit is due Constable Price for his promptness in planning his capture and for his bravery in confronting so desperate a character.

New Oil Wells.

The Venture well is still producing at the rate of about one hundred and seventy five barrels per day, and is the best well in the vicinity.

Well No. 1 on a twenty acre lease of the Tuttle farm, owned by Messrs. Irwin and Bird, struck the sand rock one week since, and so heavy a flow of gas followed it was necessary to put out all the fires until connection with steam pipes could be made with Venture well No. 2. Drilling was then resumed, and on Sunday commenced to test. Up to Monday noon it had produced about one hundred barrels of oil. Much was wasted in withdrawing the tools, a stream of oil and water being cast up higher than the derrick. It is anticipated that as soon as it gets in good working condition, this well will be quite as productive as the Venture.

The McNair well, upon which so many eyes are turned, and the success of which will prove the worth or worthlessness of territory in that direction, is in the sand, and but a day or two will elapse before a verdict will be rendered. That this will prove a fifty or sixty barrel well, nearly every one believes, though there are found the usual number of knowing ones who say, in speaking of the oil belt, "she don't run that way—better follow right out beyond the old Venture well."

THE stone face in the desert near Gila Bend is believed by the Mexican Indians to be that of Montezuma, who will one day awaken from his long sleep. "So strong is this belief in some parts of Mexico," says the Overland Monthly, "that people who passed through that country year ago tell of some localities where fires were kept constantly burning in anticipation of Montezuma's early coming. It looks as though the stern face up there was just a little softened in its expression by the deep slumber that holds the eyelids over the commanding eye, and all nature seems hushed into death like stillness. Day after day, year after year, century after century, slumbers the man up there on the height, and life and vegetation sleep on the arid plains below—slumber never disturbed—a sleep never broken; for the battle cry of Yuma, Himo and Maricopo, that once rang at the foot of the mountains, did not reach Montezuma's ear, and the dying shrieks of the children of those who came far over the seas to rob him of his sceptre and crown, fall unheeded on the rocks and the deserts that guard his sleep."

HOPE'S SONG.

I hear it singing, singing sweetly,
Softly in an undertone,
Singing as if God had taught it,
"It is better farther on!"

Night and day it sings the same song;
Sings it while I sit alone,
Sings so that the heart may hear it—
"It is better farther on!"

Sits upon the grave and sings it,
Sings it when the heart would groan,
Sings it when the shadows darken—
"It is better farther on!"

Farther on? But how much farther?
Count the milestones, one by one,
No! no counting—only trusting,
"It is better farther on!"

—From "Diaries and Letters" of an English Preacher."

THE Government officials have more hope than they felt last week that the conferences with the Indian Chiefs will result in good. They do not think that as soon as they return they will go on the war path, but will wait for some time to see the result of the proposed new order of things.

WANT OF VITALITY.

Sometimes there is a lack of vitality in large and apparently well developed frames. Herculean sinews and muscles are not always indicative of stamina and constitutional vigor in their possessor. Health depends more upon the condition of the stomach, the liver and the bowels, than upon the breadth of the shoulders, or the size of loose levers and pulleys of the system in which strength is supposed to reside. All of this grand animal machinery is of itself no protective against sickness and decay. Easy and perfect digestion, regular and healthy secretions, uncontaminated blood, and a regular discharge of the waste matter of the body through the intestines, the kidneys and the pores, are the most potent safeguards against disease, the best guaranties of longevity. To promote these objects is the great end and purpose of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. The ingredients of which the Great Tonic and Alterative is composed are taken solely from the vegetable kingdom, and their medicinal virtues are not counterbalanced by the acid and poisonous elements which exist, more or less, in all the powerful mineral drugs. Sufferers from indigestion, bilousness, intermittent fevers, nervous debility or constipation, not only find immediate relief from the use of this agreeable stimulant and invigorant, but becomes conscious, as time wears on, of an increase of constitutional elasticity and vital force. Labor and exposure no longer produce the same effect upon them as heretofore, and they feel as if they had acquired a new hold on life, a reserve of mental and physical energy. This has been the experience of thousands of both sexes, and every day adds to the mass of confirmatory testimony. Whenever the temperature and state of the atmosphere, exercises a depressing influence over the minds and bodies of invalids, Hostetter's Bitters is the tonic upon which they can rely for swift and permanent restoration.

PLANING MILL MEN
And Others,
TAKE NOTICE!
The undersigned has letters patent of the United States for the improved construction of weather-boarding, inside lining and of wainscoting for houses. The weather-boarding, by this patent improvement, being more particularly intended for vertical use, and combines great durability and beauty of appearance; and it is so constructed as to entirely avoid the use of joint strips, and to prevent water from entering the joint of the gaping or the showing of the joints by the action of the weather on the timber.
Inside lining and wainscoting by this new method are so constructed as to form perfect panels as cheaply as by the ordinary flooring boards alone; thereby preventing the showing of the joints from any cause, and leaving no refuges for bugs.
He has also purchased the patent right of what is commonly known as the "Moulded Weather-boarding."
He has disposed of the following territorial and shop rights in Allegheny county, for both patents, to wit:
To G. A. Mundorff, the right of the territory south of the river in said county.
To McQuewan & Douglass, the right for the First ward, Pittsburgh.
To Hill, Patterson & Co., shop rights for their mill, Sixth ward, Pittsburgh.
To Alex. McClure for the borough of McKeesport.
To Parker & Paul, for First, Second, Third and Fourth wards, city of Allegheny.
To Reed Brothers, shop right at their mill in Seventh ward, city of Allegheny.
To Dunham, Saint & Co., for the boroughs of Sharpsburg and Etna; also the townships of Shaler and Indiana.
All persons are warned against infringing upon either of said patents, and those wishing to purchase will please call, or address me, at No. 75 Smithfield street, Pittsburgh, Pa.

LOAN
of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Co.

The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad

Is completed and running from RICHMOND, VA., to the celebrated WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, in West Virginia, 227 miles. It is being rapidly extended to the Ohio river, 200 miles further making in all 427 miles.

In its progress Westward, it penetrates and opens up to market the WONDERFUL COAL DEPOSITS OF THE KANAWHA REGION IN WEST VIRGINIA. And thus brings the superior and abundant Coals of that section into communication with the IRON ORES OF VIRGINIA AND OHIO, and the WESTERN, SOUTH WESTERN AND EASTERN MARKETS.

When completed it will connect the SUPERIOR HARBOR FACILITIES OF THE CHESAPEAKE BAY with reliable navigation on the Ohio river, and thus with the ENTIRE SYSTEM OF RAILROAD AND WATER TRANSPORTATION OF THE GREAT WEST AND SOUTHWEST.

It will make a SHORT, EASY, CHEAP and FAVORABLE ROUTE from the WEST to the SEA and will command a LARGE SHARE OF THE ENORMOUS FREIGHTS seeking transportation to the coast.

It will thus become one of the most IMPORTANT AND PROFITABLE EAST AND WEST TRUNK LINES OF RAILROAD in the country, and command a trade of immense value.

The completed portion of the Road is doing a PROFITABLE AND INCREASING BUSINESS, and is fully equal in value to the whole amount of the mortgage upon the entire Line ($15,000,000.)

The loan of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad Company, being a FIRST MORTGAGE UPON THE ENTIRE LINE, PROPERTY AND EQUIPMENTS, WORTH WHEN COMPLETED AT LEAST $30,000,000, is therefore one of the most substantial, conservative and reliable Railroad Loans ever offered in the market, and is peculiarly adapted to the wants of

DR. WHITTIER
CONTINUES TO TREAT ALL PRIVATE DISEASES, Syphilis in all its forms, all urinary diseases, and the effects of mercury are completely eradicated; Spermatorrhea or Seminal Weakness and Impotency, resulting from self-abuse or other causes, and which produce some of the following effects as blotches, bodily weakness, indigestion, consumption, aversion to society, unmanliness, dread of future events, loss of memory, indolence, nocturnal emissions, and finally so prostrating the sexual system as to render marriage unsatisfactory, and therefore imprudent, are permanently cured. Persons afflicted with these or any other delicate, intricate or long standing constitutional complaint should give the Doctor a trial; he never fails.
A particular attention given to all Female complaints, Leucorrhea or Whites, Falling, Inflammation or Ulceration of the Womb, Ovaritis, Pruritis, Amenorrhoea, Menorrhagia, Dysmenorrhoea, and Sterility or Barrenness, are treated with the greatest success.
It is self-evident that a physician who confines himself exclusively to the study of a certain class of diseases and treats thousands of cases every year must acquire greater skill in that specialty than one in general practice.
The Doctor publishes a medical pamphlet of fifty pages that gives a full exposition of venereal and private diseases that can be had free at office or by mail for two stamps, in sealed envelopes. Every sentence contains instruction to the afflicted, and enabling them to determine the precise nature of their complaints.
The establishment, comprising ten ample rooms, is central. When it is not convenient to visit the city, the Doctor's opinion can be obtained by giving a written statement of the case, and medicines can be forwarded by mail or express. In some instances, however, a personal examination is absolutely necessary, while in others daily personal attention is required, and for the accommodation of such patients there are apartments connected with the office that are provided with every requisite that is calculated to promote recovery, including medicated vapor baths. All prescriptions are prepared in the Doctor's own laboratory, under his personal supervision. Medical pamphlets at office free, or by mail for two stamps. No matter who have failed, read what he says. Hours 9 A. M. to 8 P. M. Sundays 12 M. to 2 P. M. Office, No. 9 WYLIE ST. (near Court House) Pittsburgh.

PITTSBURGH CATTLE MARKET.

EAST LIBERTY STOCK YARDS, }
THURSDAY, June 16, 1870. }

CATTLE.

The sales of cattle were again liberal this week, footing up since the date of our last report, 1,466 head, against something like 1,700 the week preceding. The market although somewhat panicky in consequence of the railroad troubles, turned out fully as well, if not better, than was generally expected, but had it not been for the presence of a stiff delegation from Philadelphia, it would most undoubtedly have been hard, as the New York buyers were very timid, and they had good reason for being so. The Philadelphia market was rather better this week while, on the other hand, the New York market was dull and lower, and the Philadelphia men took the most of the cattle and that, too, at last weeks prices, while the Yorkers, being unable to stand the prices, got but a small proportion of the stock. We believe that the average price this week was below that of last week, but as an offset against this there was a much larger number of common cattle, and, therefore, taking the quality of the cattle into consideration, prices were, as already intimated, fully as high as last week. As will be seen by reference to the report of sales, prime to extra sold at 8¾@9¼; fair to medium at 7@8; and stockers at 4½@6.

It is stated that cattle are being shipped from Chicago to New York at about the same rate that is charged from here to New York, and unless the Pennsylvania Central makes a very material reduction, we need not look for much more stock from Chicago, as it will naturally go the other way. Alexander, a very heavy shipper from Chicago to New York has commenced to ship on the New York Central, and while this change will be a serious loss to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company it is of no consequence to the stock trade of Pittsburgh, as the only thing he ever did with his cattle here was to water and feed them—making it a mere resting place, as it were, between Chicago and New York. It is reported the last named company contemplate making the necessary reduction in order to compete with the other route, but whether there is anything in it or not we do not know.

SHEEP.

The market is rather quiet and devoid of anything especially new or important. The arrivals, although not unusually large, were, nevertheless, fully up to the demand, and of the lower grades there was more than was wanted. Prime sheep sold readily, and at relatively better prices than the common grades, and, as was the case last week, the latter kind was very dull and could only be sold at very low prices. Quotations may be fairly given at 4 to 6c for common to prime, and there were but very few sales above 5¾, though good 100 lbs averages would have brought 6c, and there was one bunch of extra sold at 6-10.

HOGS.

Market very slow with a supply fully up to the demand, and compared with last week, prices have declined ¼@⅜c per pound. Notwithstanding the arrivals from Chicago, as might be expected, were light, yet there was sufficient number to meet the wants of shippers. We now quote Philadelphia hogs at 9¾ to 9⅞, and Yorkers at 8¾ to 9.

PITTSBURGH MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, June 16, 1870. }

The breadstuffs market continues very firm and considerably excited under the influence of the advices from Chicago and New York as well as from Europe, and dealers here are very indifferent about selling, as they expect a still further advance and are apprehensive that if they reduce their stocks now they may have to replace at a greater cost. Cable telegrams report a continued drouth in France, and it is said that some 200,000 bushels of wheat were taken in New York Wednesday, on French account. We were shown a letter to-day, from a miller at Columbus Wisconsin, which stated that there had been no rain there of any consequence since March, and that there was not likely to be more than half a crop of wheat—this same miller is asking $1 per barrel advance on flour, and it seems that there has been a general advance in both flour and wheat all through the west, and, strange as it may seem, this is one of the cheapest markets in the country. In some parts of Tennessee harvesting has been commenced, and advices from Nashville report the crops as being very good, the only drawback being too much rain.

Messrs. Isaiah Dickey & Co. have received a sample of new Barley from Tennessee, and they expect samples of new wheat and flour within the next few days.

ASHES—Steady but unchanged; Common Soda, 4c; Refined, 4½c; Pearls, 9¼c; Pots, 7⅛c.

BUTTER—Is in rather better demand, particularly for the better grades; we continue to quote at 15@18 for good to prime fresh packed and 19@20 for choice.

BROOM CORN—Sales at 13@13½.

BEANS—There is scarcely any inquiry and the market is dull and prices nominal at $1,50@1,75 per bushel.

BROOMS—Store prices; Fancy, $5,50; No. 1, $4,50; No. 2, $4; No. 3, $3,50; Common, $2,50@3.

CORNMEAL—Is dull but the stock is light and prices unchanged; 90@$1 per bushel.

CEMENT—Sales of Louisville Hydraulic at $2@2½ per bbl.

CHEESE—Sales of new Ohio Factory at 14c; new Ohio Goshen at 14½c, and Hamburg is quoted dull at 15c.

CARBON OIL—Is dull but unchanged—standard brands 23 cts in a jobbing way.

CIDER—No. 1 sweet cider is quoted at $10 per bbl.

DRIED FRUIT—Apples may be quoted at 4@5½, for fair to choice, and Peaches at 5@7 for quarters and 8@9 for halves. Blackberries, 12@13; pitted cherries, 23@25.

EGGS—The demand is less active, and the market weak though unchanged; we continue to give 23 cts as the leading quotation.

FEATHERS—Quiet and unchanged, at 80@85 cts. to the trade.

FLOUR—Market strong and prices are still tending upward, and as already intimated, dealers are indifferent about selling. Good brands of spring and winter wheat are being sold at $6@6½. Fancy flour, $7@8. Rye flour, $5.

GRAIN—Wheat is in steady demand, and all that offers is taken readily by the mills at $1,15@1,23 for fair to prime red. Oats firm and tending upward; we can report sales to go east, free on board, at 53, now held at 54—sales in first hands at 49@50, buyers furnishing sacks. There is nothing doing in Corn though the feeling is firmer, and there is but little offering; small sales of ear at 85@85. Rye, is firmer and in rather better inquiry; sales reported at 93@95, that is for round lots.

HAY—Market dull and unchanged; $10@15 for common to prime.

HEMP—Sales of undressed Kentucky Hemp at $167.

HUSKS—Corn husks, 3@3½ cts.

LARD OIL—No. 1 extra is quoted at $1,25@1,28, and No. 2 at 80@85.

LIME—Sales of Cleveland at $2,25 per bbl, and eastern at $1,75.

POTATOES—Sales of Prime Lake Shore Peach Blows at 70 to 75 cts per bushel. Sales new crop at $7 per bbl.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, }
THURSDAY, June 16, 1870. }

The oil market continues very dull, and there is not much prospect of any immediate improvement. From the feeling in crude this afternoon, it would seem that the general impression is that the bottom has been touched, as there were offers to buy at a figure at which there were offers to sell yesterday. However, the market unsettled and very unsatisfactory, and the trade continues in that peculiar condition, that there is little or no chance to do business, that is legitimate business, and there is no disposition to speculate. Two or three months ago it was thought if oil got to present prices that it would stimulate speculation, but for some reason or other speculators are not inclined to take hold, and there never has been a time, perhaps, in the history of the trade when the oil business has been restricted to so strictly a legitimate basis as during this year. Contracts mean oil now not differences, as was too frequently the case last year, and this is demonstrated by the fact that while the sales do not begin to compare with last year, our shipments are largely in excess of the same time last year.

CRUDE.

Sales in lots of 3,500 bbls seller June at 11⅛. This afternoon, 11⅛ was bid and there were no sellers—at least it was so reported. Seller July quoted at 11¼; August or September, same option, 12; seller all year, 11¾; and buyer all year at 13@13⅛.

REFINED.

No quotable change compared with yesterday. Spot quoted at 26¾; and 27 for June, July or August; and 27⅛ for September. Sale of 1,000 bbls each, August and September, in New York, at 21, gold, considered equivalent to 27½ in currency.

RIVER NEWS.

The river was about stationary last evening with 6 feet 3 inches in the channel by the Monongahela marks. Weather cloundy and unsettled, with occasional showers of rain.

The Granite State, from Portsmouth, arrived last evening with a good trip. She departs as usual to-day at 4 P. M., and on the present stage of water she will go down like a streak. She receipts passengers and freight through to Cincinnati. Capt. W. H. Kerr, who is no stranger, is in command, and the clerk, Mr. Johnston, is a very courteous officer.

The Belle, from Geneva, with an excellent trip, arrived and departed.

The Glendale, Capt. J. M. Hare, with Capt. Jas. Mellon in the office, is announced for St. Louis forthwith.

The Juniata, from Cincinnati, is due to-night, and will return to-morrow. She is now the only packet boat in the trade, and is admirably well adapted for it in every respect. Capt. Brennan will no doubt, as he deserves, get a good trip.

—W. R. Reed formerly watchman on the steamer Rapidan, recently sunk in the Tennessee river near Aurora, Kentucky, was taken to Paducah on Wednesday on the steamer Sam Orr, having robbed the safe of the Rapidan of about $6,000. Reed had been in charge of the wreck from the sinking of the boat, and about a week since he went to Paducah and got on a spree, spending money lavishly and boasted of the amount he had, which excited suspicion and eventually caused his arrest.

—Latest advices from Ouachita River, by the steamer Wade Hampton and May-flower, are that Ouachita had risen sufficient to allow them to reach Camden. The officers of those packets report the rise but temporary, that it may hold out long enough to allow the Gov. Allen, which left New Orleans last Wednesday, to reach Camden. Red River is still falling, and in less than a month hence large class packets will have to give way to those of a smaller class.

—The Camelia, St. Louis to Pittsburgh, left Cincinnati on Tuesday. Pilots, James Shouse and Barney Given. She has some two dozen Gipsies with their wagons, horses, dogs, etc. etc., en route from Paducah to Tuscarawas Co., Ohio.

—A carpenter, named James Baxton, who was employed on the McGill, has been missing, at St. Louis, some two weeks, and his friends suspect foul play, as he had considerable money on his person.

—The channel pier of the bridge in course of construction across the Missouri, at Leavenworth, fell on Monday, sinking a barge and killing three men.

—The snag boat DeRussey is off the ways at Mound City, fully repaired. The J. J. Albert was put on the ways on Wednesday last.

—Captain B. W. Rock has chartered the Bettie Gilbert for the Kanawha trade, and will run her between Charleston and Canelton.

—A Mound City paper says the R. E. Lee will lay up at that place for repairs in two or three weeks.

—The Ironsides left Cincinnati for St. Louis on Tuesday with four or five barges.

—The Juniata did not leave Cincinnati until Wednesday.

THE DAILY GAZETTE.

HOME NEWS.

No business of special interest was transacted in the Common Pleas Court yesterday.

Hand Crushed.—Richard Mason, a workman at Lewis, Oliver & Phillips mill, in Birmingham, while working at some machinery, had his hand caught and terribly crushed yesterday. Amputation will be necessary.

David Logan, who was charged with the larceny of five loads of coal on last week, before Alderman McMaster's was discharged by the prosecutor paying the cost, thereby clearing Mr. Logan from the aforesaid charge.

Miss Ernest's second grand vocal and instrumental concert will be given without fail at Liberty Hall, East Liberty on Friday evening, June 17th. Reserved seats, 50 cents; can be secured at McClarran's drug store, East Liberty. 2.

Our types of yesterday made us speak of Dilworth, Porter & Co.'s Locomotive Works as visited by the Southern railroad party. We should have said Smith & Porter's Locomotive Works, and Dilworth, Porter's Railroad Chair and Spike Mill.

New Store.—A very extensive new wholesale liquor house has just been opened at Nos. 17 and 18 Water street, by Messrs. M. Munhall and John O'Doherty, under the firm name of M. Munhall and Co. The house is thoroughly stocked, and the firm, with such facilities, promises to transact a large business.

Strawberries.—Strawberries and other delicious edibles in abundance at the Smithfield street M. E. Church this evening. Admission free, and no "boring" about investing in the delicacies against the visitor's wishes. The evening can be devoted to no more pleasant purpose than by attending this entertainment.

Closing.—The ladies of the Hazlewood Presbyterian Church will close their strawberry festival to-night. If those who have not visited the church during the festival could feel as they do who have been there, the church would certainly be crowded to-night. Trains from the city will accommodate visitors, free of charge. Endeavor to be there.

Weddings.—The month of roses seems to also deserve the title of month of marriages if we are to judge by the numerous weddings which have lately occurred hereabouts. There were no less than thirteen brides on the evening train of the Pennsylvania railroad, and three on the noon train, and all were married yesterday. The ministers must be reaping a rich harvest of fees.

Let none of our readers fail to remember that the annual musical contest of the pupils of the Pittsburgh Female College will be held this evening in the College Chapel. These occasions generally draw together brilliant and refined audiences, and we can confidently recommend all our readers who would spend an evening delightfully to attend. Tickets may be obtained at the book stores and at Mellor & Hoene's music rooms on Fifth avenue, or at the door.

The Last Chance—The strawberry festival under the auspices of the ladies of the North Avenue M. E. Church, Allegheny, opened brilliantly last evening—exceeding the most sanguine expectations. The church was thronged with one of the happiest company of ladies and gentlemen and joyous children that has ever been gathered at any similar entertainment hereabouts. The edibles, from the rapidity which they disapeared, must have been satisfactory. The fair closes to-night. Don't miss the opportunity to enjoy one evening of rare pleasure.

EDITORS GAZETTE: Permit me through the columns of your excellent paper to call the attention of Council to an ordinance passed a long time ago for the construction of a board walk in that thickly settled portion of the Twentieth ward, from Aiken avenue to East Liberty, along Ellsworth avenue. There appears to be no movement on the part of those whose duty it is to have the work done. It is certainly an outrage on the citizens living along this avenue. Every rain compels those whose business calls them to East Liberty to either wade in mud or take the fearful risk of walking on the Pennsylvania Railroad. It is a well known fact that a great number of ladies and children have to travel over this road to the store or to school, hence the great necessity of a board walk, and that as soon as possible. I hope you will call the attention of the parties concerned to this matter, as thus you will do but an act of justice to a great many citizens.

The Verdict.

The jury in the case of the Commonwealth vs. Patrick Welsh and Albert Long, indicted for the murder of Jacob Ambos, a full report of the trial of which we previously published, agreed upon a verdict yesterday afternoon at half past four o'clock. They found a verdict of guilty of voluntary manslaughter as to Patrick Welsh and recommended him to the mercy of the Court, and a verdict of not guilty as to Albert Long. The latter was discharged by proclamation, and Welsh was remanded to jail.

MESSRS. EDITORS GAZETTE: Our new street improvement, like "true love, does not flow smoothly," and has come to a sudden halt, as an injunction has been served upon our progressive Council, restraining them from further street improvement until certain lines are settled. The Council proposed a compromise, but the agrieved party prefers a legal adjustment, and hence their appeal "to the law and to the testimony."

The ladies of the first Methodist Church are now holding a strawberry festival, in our new bank building, which is to continue through the week. A fine gold watch, a gold headed cane and other articles are being voted for, which produces some interest and excitement.

Notice to the Surviving Soldiers of 1812 and 1813.

Some twenty or twenty-five of the soldiers of 1812 and 1813 of Kentucky and Ohio have agreed at once, without preliminary arrangement, to visit the battle grounds of our youth at Fort Meigs, and Col. Dudley's battle ground, near the Rapids of the Mammee river, those of Kentucky and Ohio, mostly, will pass Cincinnati on the morning of the 23d of June, on their way to Mammee City, O., and would be happy to meet all or any living of the Pittsburgh Blues and Petersburg Volunteers of 1812 and 1813 who served with us during the siege of Fort Meigs and the hardships of that campaign, should this scroll meet the eye of any and they choose to meet with us, they should start from Pittsburgh on the early morning train of the 23d of June, 1870. I truly hope to see some of those old comrades and with them take a stroll over those grounds.

Very respectfully, WM. B. DAVIS.
Soldier of 1812 and 1813, in my 79th year.
McArthur, Ohio, June 14th, 1870. d&w

Fashionable Double Wedding.

Fashionable circles were all ablaze with excitement last night on the occasion of a grand wedding which took place in the Third Presbyterian Church, on Sixth avenue. There were possibly one thousand invitations out, and judging from the attendance, but few notes of regret could have been sent in. At the appointed hour, eight o'clock, carriage after carriage rolled up the avenue and deposited the richly attired guests at the church. During the interval elapsing between the arrival of the guests and that of the bridal party, the audience was agreeably entertained with a very fine organ concert, Prof. Rohback presiding and manipulating the keys with force, power, beauty and brilliancy. After the commodious church was crowded to its utmost capacity with an audience conspicuous for dress, culture and refinement, the bridal party arrived and marched up the marble aisle, the organ sending forth a merry wedding march as a greeting. The couple were attended by two bridesmaids and bridesmen. The bride and lady attendants were dressed in white, and carried boquets of white flowers. There was nothing elaborate or extravagant in any of the costumes of the ladies, but all looked charmingly neat and sweet. The interesting ceremony of uniting the happy young people together was performed by Rev. Dr. Noble. When they were joined and solemnly declared man and wife, a pleasant little episode, not in the "card invite" occurred, for to the astonishment of most of the guests, one of the bridesmen led his bridesmaid to the desk, and they, too, were married, making the occasion a right royal double wedding.

The groom in the first wedding was Mr. B. B. Haseltine, a well-known Fifth avenue merchant, and the bride Miss Lizzie, the accomplished daughter of Hon. H. W. Williams, of the Supreme Bench. In the surprise wedding Mr. Edward Maxwell, who is widely known and esteemed, was the groom who secures a friend for life, and Miss Mary, daughter of the late Porter R. Friend, was the blushing bride. The happy couples left on the eastward bound trains for an extended bridal tour.

THE LAUGHRAN MURDER.

Court of Oyer and Terminer—Judges Sterrett and Collier—Trial of Nicholas Hoffman for Murder—Second Day's Proceedings.

The Court of Oyer and Terminer met at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, Judges Sterrett and Collier on the bench. The case of the Commonwealth vs. Nicholas Hoffman indicted for the murder of Thomas Laughran was resumed and the following testimony was elicited:

Dr. J. A. Duncan, sworn—I reside at 510 Penn street; am a physician; was called to see Thomas Laughran the morning of the 7th of October; he was at the residence of Hugh Hanlon, Penn street; I was called before 5 o'clock in the morning I think—can't say exactly; Laughran was in the rear part of the house on the 1st story; I found him lying on his back, breathing with difficulty and there was considerable blood about his body; I found on examination that he was cut on right side near the breast bone; from which he was bleeding and exhaling air from the lung. The external wound was larger than the internal; I closed the wound and had him conveyed to his boarding house; I so directed; by so doing his breathing was less oppressive and there was less hemorrhage; I did not see him again until he had been removed to his boarding house; saw him before 9 o'clock same day; I examined the one wound and made a slight examination of the body; I don't remember that there was any significance attached to any other wounds; it seems to me that he was scratched somewhat; made no further examination when I called the second time, but relied upon his general symptoms. The wound over the lung seemed to be a clean cut parallel with the ribs, about one inch in length; I did not probe it, but introduced my finger. The external wound was an inch in length; it was an incised wound; a knife would produce a wound of that kind. We have no right to probe a wound of that character, because we might create damage by probing. After an examination of the wound and man, my opinion of his condition was that it was one of the ordinary cases of a chest wound. You must always look at wounds of that character as dangerous, when the lung is injured. I visited Laughran frequently after that time; I called a number of times that same day; I called after the first day; for three or four days he was quite low, very bad; his symptoms abated somewhat after that day; we were of opinion, Dr. Donnelly, the consulting physician, and myself, that he was out of danger; don't remember the date of the consultation. I visited him up until the 18th of October; I cannot tell how long after the consultation I visited him, but the morning of the 10th was the last time I visited him; I did not examine him that morning; do not know his condition; I desire to make a correction; I meant to say that I visited the man ten days; it was on the morning of the 17th that I visited him last; do not know when he died; visited him several times after the consultation with Dr. Donnelly; after receiving an injury in the chest death is sometimes caused by hemorrhage, external or internal; bleeding did not follow as the result of the injury; there was no hemorrhage in this case after I closed the wound; I examined the man carefully after I closed the wound several times; I cannot state whether there was internal bleeding or not, as the blood gravitates to the bottom of the lungs; I can positively state there was not an internal hemorrhage; if we have not hemorrhage after the third day our prognostications are favorable and we have hopes that death will not follow from hemorrhage; then we direct our attention to the inflammation; there was inflammation in this case to his advantage; the treatment was then antiphlogistic; our object was to avert an extensive inflammation of the lung; sometimes an inflammation will extend all over the lung, and the more extensive an inflammation on the lung the more fatal it is; he continued well, improving, as we thought; the consulting physician, Dr. Donnelly, withdrew from the case, thinking the patient was out of danger, stating that the case was more favorable and he would not call until sent for by myself or some one else. On the 9th day after he was wounded, the patient was sitting up and talked with me jovially; recovery, of course, had not permanently set, but he was premature in his sitting up, though he felt comfortable when sitting; on the morning of the 17th I saw him last, but did not remain more than a moment; that was the 10th day after receiving the wound; I did not examine him; he was in bed; I cannot state the cause of his death.

Cross-examined—I do not recollect the day Dr. Donnelly first called to see the patient; do not know how many times I visited Laughran before Dr. Donnelly was called in; do not know the time Dr. Donnelly and myself came to the conclusion that the patient was out of danger; it was about five, six or seven days; the consultation took place outside, after we had visited the patient together; I told Laughran that he was improving; on the 9th day after the injury he was sitting up and talking jovially; Dr. Donnelly had retired from the case before that; when he was sitting up talking jovially he said "Doctor I am all right; I would be all right if I had a —." I jovially remarked to him that he made me blush; my treatment up to the day I left was tonic; of course, after inflammation exists for some time the powers of life must decrease, and we give tonic to stimulate or strengthen the patient, to prolong life and to prevent clot, as it defiberates the blood; I put nothing on the wound externally; I dressed the wound by stitching it and placing adhesive plaster over it. I also placed over it a bella dona plaster; I don't know how long these strips of adhesive plaster remained; about a day or two I think, cannot state positively. I did not remove them; Dr. Donnelly removed them; it was done on his first or second visit; I cannot state when that visit was; I did not see Dr. Donnelly on his first visit; they told me he had been there; I was not there when Laughran died; I ceased to visit him on the 17th, because I felt hurt at the conduct of the consulting physician; my feelings were wounded by the course he had adopted in my absence. On the first day Dr. Donnelly came he did not agree with me in my treatment of the case. He wanted to adopt a different mode of treatment from that which I was pursuing; he did adopt it subsequently. I continued my treatment up until the time I quit the case; he did not interfere with my treatment or change it, but added to it a preparation which operates on the skin. The treatment was not changed to my knowledge on the 17th; I did not examine the patient on my last visit; I did not examine the patient because I felt hurt at the conduct of the consulting physician from something that had been said to me. The patient was in delirium only at certain times for two or three days, or longer perhaps; he was not in delirium when he sat up and talked with me. I said the inflammation was to the advantage of the patient because it solidified the lung at the part wounded and prevented hemorrhage.

Re-direct—Have been practicing about five years. Graduated at Belleview College. Have treated cases of this character prior to this one. It was in the forenoon I had the conversation with Laughran, when he talked jovial with me. I always called in the morning, and sometimes two or three times during the day and at night when they would call me. I think I was called several times in the night. It was on the 16th that he sat up and talked to me. It was on the 17th that I was there last; I remained but a moment.

Dr. John A. McGirr, sworn.—Am a practicing physician and surgeon. Have been practicing thirty years. Saw Thomas Laughran the night before his death. Saw him on Thirteenth street at the house he had been lying at. He was in a dying condition when I saw him. That is the only time I saw him, except at the post mortem examination. Dr. Donnelly was present. I went to see the patient at his request. Made an examination of the wounds. Discovered a wound between the third and fourth ribs on the right side, about an inch and three-quarters in length through the skin and fatty tissue, and extending down to the muscles that attach the ribs to each other. The wound was from half to three-quarters of an inch in depth. Did not examine any farther about him for external wounds. Merely examined the external condition of the chest with reference to effusion, and found the chest filled full of fluid, excessive and labored breathing and the perspiration pouring off him so that his hours were very few. The Doctor and I concluded that he would not live twelve hours. The patient was conscious. I did not converse with the patient. The next morning Dr. Donnelly made a post mortem examination, and I was present, and we arrived at our ideas of what the cause of death was. The first thing we did was to examine whether there was any communication between the external wound and the cavity of the chest; I refer to the wound on the breast; we found that we could pass a probe in a short distance at the angle nearer the breast-bone for a short distance but could not pass it into the chest; The wound through the muscles that joined the ribs was plugged up by a deposit of lymph, of fresh formation; the coating of the chest was then opened and an immense effusion poured out through the cut made by the doctor in the examination; this effusion was all removed, and it run out so rapidly that we could not sponge it up, but we collected about two thirds of an ordinary wooden pail full; I took the sponge and cleared out the cavity of the chest and found the lower portion of this fluid contained considerable pussy matter; I then examined the condition of the right lung and found it collapsed or condensed and occupying a small space in the upper portion of the chest not larger than my two fists; we found the pleura adhering together, where they had been wounded, sticking to the wall of the chest where the wound penetrated and sticking to the lung also where it had been wounded; we then removed the lung with the portions of adhering pleura, and examined it for a wound to correspond with the external wound; we found the lung had been wounded; on separating this attached pleura from it this wound was closed up by lymph as the wound between the ribs had been; I separated these bands of lymph and found that an artery, a vein and a barochial tube had been severed by the cut; the cut must have been one and a half inches deep in the lung; it was deep enough to divide these important parts of the lung; the wound was three-quarters of an inch in length; that of course gave us data to form our opinions as to the cause of death unless we found cause of death elsewhere; we examined the heart next, and found it sound; examined the other side of the chest and found the lung somewhat congested from the pressure of the fluid on its right side against it, interfering with respiration and circulation; the lung was in the main part sound; our conclusion from the examination was that the man had died from this wound which had penetrated the lung and the effects of that penetration; it was a continuous wound through from the breast into the lung which it penetrated, as I have described; we examined as to the other wounds, one on the forehead and one on the back; I don't recollect much about them; do not think they were serious wounds; am very certain they were not; the wound in the lung caused the death of the man; the examination was made in the room where the man died, at eleven o'clock the following day; he was a man of fine physical developement.

Cross-examination—Laughlin was, I suppose, about five feet eight or ten inches; he was a very muscular man, with a very large, well-developed chest; he would weigh over one hundred and eighty pounds, probably near two hundred pounds. A wound such as I have described would not be necessarily fatal, from my experience; I could estimate very nearly the length of time inflamation had been going on, and it must have been from a week to ten days; a wound that had as much effusion as that one would necessarily be fatal. That amount of effusion would not necessarily follow in all cases. It often follows that wounds of that character are followed by inflamation and symptoms of effusion and then the inflamation and effusion abate. The original effusions of blood from the wound into the cavity of the chest was there as a constant source of irritation, keeping up that inflamation of the pleura, constantly liable to break out again until that effusion was absorbed; the man would not be safe at any time, as long as the effusion or a portion of it was there; I do not think the inflamation resulted from the handling of the wound, but from the presence of effused blood in the lower cavity of the pleura.

Dr. W. H. Daly sworn—I saw deceased; do not recollect the date; it was about four hours after he died; Drs. Donnelly, McGirr and Jamison, were present; this was at the post mortem examination; I was present and took some notes of the examination; there were two wounds on the body; one at the base of the neck, this wound was healed; another wound on the right breast about four inches below the collar bone at its point of entrance it was about two inches in length, extending in a direction backwards and upwards into the cavity of the chest. This wound was not healed at its point of entrance, but was plugged up at a point about an inch in depth with plastic lymph; an incision was made from the base of the neck to the navel, another one carried across the abdomen at this point, from side to side and the cavity of the right chest opened which was found filled to distention with a fluid mixed with the coloring matter of the blood; the lung occupying a position in the upper and inner cavity of the chest, it was completely collapsed and occupied about one-eighth of the entire cavity; There were very large bands of plastic lymph holding it in this part of the cavity and layers of the same covering the inner surface of the wall of the chest; the lung was removed and a partially invisible wound found in the lower portion of the upper lobe, which corresponded to the direction and dimensions of the external wound described.

At this point court took a recess until half past one o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Court convened at half past one o'clock, Judges Sterrett and Collier on the bench.

Dr. Daley who was on the stand when Court took a recess, was re-called, and the examination in chief was continued.

The wound was about a quarter of an inch in depth in the lung, and a little less than that in length; the entire depth of the wound from the surface I judge was from two and a quarter to three inches; the entrance of the blade had divided the intercostal muscles across their fibre; this would cause a somewhat gaping wound, and allow the entrance of atmospheric air from the weight of its own pressure, which would cause collapse of the lung; the effused fluids gave no evidence of any very remote effusion, or rather remote action of that kind, inasmuch as there was very little of that kind of decomposition that results in the formation of pus; some pus, however, was present in the lower strata of the volume of fluid, evidently in its forming stage. The man was apparently about twenty-two years of age and was of a very stout and muscular frame; his features wore a pinched expression, indicative of having suffered excruciating pain; there was no very important arteries in the locality of the wound; the external and internal mammary and the intercostal arteries are about all. I am rather inclined to the belief that none of these arteries were severed; in my opinion death was caused by pleurisy or inflammation of the lining membrane of the lung, with its consequent continued effusion; this was the immediate cause of death; the remote cause of the trouble was the wound made by the knife.

Cross-examined—This inflammation might have been caused by a cold taken, or from the wound. I could not say certainly and necessarily that the inflammation resulted from the wound. It is possible that if acute inflammation had gone on from the time the wound was inflicted until the death of the patient that the effusion might have been the same as we found it, but it is not probable. The matter formed would have more complete pus. There would be no danger from the severing of the external mammary artery, and the intercostal artery would not have been severed. I think the sole cause of death was from inflammatory action set up by some very efficient cause, and that action was very violent. Inflammation proceeded from the wound, and the inflammation was the cause of death.

Re-direct—There was no evidence of any severe violence about the head.

The Commonwealth proposed to offer in evidence the statements of deceased made to Alderman Taylor, the morning after he was injured.

Alderman James M. Taylor, sworn—I was called upon to go and see the deceased on the morning after he was injured. It was about eight o'clock on the 7th of October. He could not speak; I took the statement from parties standing round, and then read it to Laughran, who nodded his assent to it.

The offer was withdrawn.

Edwin Printer, sworn—Live at No. 92 Pike street. Am about 17 years of age. Work at Moreland Mitchell's livery stable. I know where Stephen Hoffman lived in October last; it was on Penn street, a few doors above O'Hara. I was there between three and four o'clock on the morning that the cutting took place. Was outside of Stephen Hoffman's house, standing on the window sill. It was a tavern. I think that was the first night he opened. I heard a fuss in the house and loud talk is the reason I got on the window sill. I looked through the window. Saw Nick Hoffman and Stephen, and a man by the name of Broser, and I think Stephen's wife was there. They were just talking then, and were standing at the bar talking. They had been talking there about five minutes, I guess; I could hear what they said; I heard Nick Hoffman say he would "kill the son of a b—h that hit Stephen." They were standing along the bar. Witness was shown a plan of the building, and described the position of the parties, and his position at the window. He then said: I could see Nick Hoffman plainly; saw nothing but standing and talking while I was there; did not see any striking. The talking was not very loud when I was looking in the window a few minutes after I heard that remark from Nick, he and Steve started in the back room; Stephen's wife was behind the bar; I don't know whether it was Steve's wife or not; there was one lady behind the bar; the three men started to the back room and entered it; it was about five minutes or so after I heard the threat that they entered the back room; I did not see anything after that; I just came across Penn street before I got on the window sill; the first thing that attracted my attention as I came down O'Hara from Liberty street, was three men running down O'Hara street toward Mulberry alley from Penn street; could not say how those men were dressed; did not know any of them; Mr. Lemon came out after the man was cut—the nearest I was to the men who ran down the street was about half a square; I did not see the three men, or any of them, after they turned into Mulberry alley, until after the man was cut; first there were two men came out for the police, and I saw the man who was cut; the men came out after the police, before the man who was cut was brought out; I went into the house when the police went in; the man that was cut was in Lemon's, next door; never saw him before he was cut that I know of; did not see the Hoffmans after they had entered the back room until they were getting arrested; saw them then in Hoffman's bar room; they rushed into the back room when I was standing on the window sill; they were the two Hoffmans and Broser; do not know which of them entered first; the bar room was lit by two gas lights; could not see the men in the back room, because it was dark in there; did not see any lights in the back room; the door between the bar room and back room was open after the three men had entered; I heard nothing that was going on in the back room; I did not remain on the window sill; got off a few minutes after the men entered the back room and was standing on the pavement by the door when Hoffman made those threats; I did not go into Hoffman's house until they were getting arrested; Steve and Nick Hoffman and a few more men that I did not know were in there then.

Cross-examined—It was between three and four o'clock of the morning of October 7th; I can't tell what day of the week it was; I recollect it was the 7th of October; can't tell how I recollect; I was going home; live 92 Pike street; worked at Pitcairn's at that time, was driving "Buss"—got down generally at that time in the morning. Saw Mr. Lemon the man who keeps the "Fort Pitt" House next door to Hoffman's. He came out of the front door of Hoffman's house; I know Stephen Hoffman when I see him; I first told what I have told here to Mr. Mooney, a policeman, a day or two after the cutting was done, on Liberty street, where he was on a "beat." Witness was again shown plot of the block in which the house stands; crossed the street because I heard fuss; got up on the window sill to see what was going on; could not see from the pavement for the shutters or something inside; I only knew Broser when I saw him; heard of him as a base ball player; have known Stephen Hoffman for a good while; do not know Stephen Hoffman's wife; my face was as close to the window as I could get it; the lady was behind the bar and the men were in front of it; I think there was a little blood on some of their faces, but cannot say whose face it was on; I know that it was Nicholas who said he would kill the son of a b—h who struck Steve, by his voice; I knew him for some time, but never talked with him; have heard him talk frequently up about the engine house; can't say how often; could tell his voice from the others in the house that night; I refer to the Niagara engine house; it has been over a year or more since I saw him at the Niagara engine house; I have heard him talking other places; can't say when I last heard him talk. It was about five minutes from the time I saw the three men coming into Mulberry alley until I saw Nicholas and Stephen Hoffman and Broser rush into the back room. I had just got up on the window when I heard the threat; it was a couple of minutes before they rushed into the room; it might have been ten minutes after I saw the men turn into the alley that I saw the others rush into the back room; I cannot say how long I was on the window sill; there was no light in the back room that I could see; the woman commenced to hollow; three men rushed into the back room; I was not on the window sill then; I heard no noise in the back room before the men pushed in; no one passed along the street while I was at the door and window, but there was a man standing on the pavement with a bucket; did not observe whether there was any one in Lemon's saloon; think one of the doors was open; there was a little light in the house; have never been in the back part of Hoffman's house; I know that it was Nicholas Hoffman who made the threat from his voice and the expression used; he said I will kill the son of a b—h who hit my brother Steve.

Re-direct—The shutters on the window were wood and but half way up the window.

James Hanlon, sworn—Live in the Ninth ward; lived there in October last; know where Stephen Hoffman lived when the difficulty took place; he lived in the house where it occurred; Nicholas Hoffman was in the house that night. Between nine and ten o'clock at night I and Tom Laughran and John Lemon went into Hoffman's house with the intention of having a drink because it was the first night of his opening; Nick Hoffman was the only man in the house that I knew at that time; there were two more and a woman there; Nick made me acquainted with his brother Steve; don't know who the other man was. We had a drink and during this time Nick and me got into some talk about rolling mill affairs; during our conversation Laughran interfered in the discourse and talked for some minutes with Nick; they contraried one another during the time they talked; I believe Laughran contraried Nick in the talk; Nick called him a liar and offered to strike at him, but whether he struck him or not I do not know; Nick stooped, as if to get an under hold of Laughran, and threw him down on the floor; Nick was then on top of him, and Steve Hoffman came running from the end of the bar and I think he was trying to separate them; did not see him attempt to strike; there were two more strangers in the house, who we had left behind us at Lemon's; Lemon went out and brought them in after we had taken one drink, with the intention of treating himself; these men all got into the fuss then; Lemon and me then tried to get them men apart; after we got them apart we shoved Laughran out; one of the strangers went out with him; Then Hoffman got up, and when I got my eyes upon they were in a very bloody condition, bleeding freely as if they had been bit on the head; they were coming forward to Lemon, and each of them having a chair, and we told them Laughran was gone, and they left the chairs down; Laughran was at the out side waiting to get in; I saw Nick put his hand in his pocket and draw a knife; he opened the knife and made some expression, but I could not tell exactly what it was; but it bore on my mind that he said if he was abused any more he would either take a life or lose one; I could not exactly say what he said; it might have been from two to five minutes, maybe more when I saw Laughran make his appearance in the back way in the door leading into the bar room; I shouted for Laughran to go when I saw Nicholas making for him; I could see the glance of the knife by the gas light; do not know whether it was the back or not; the knife was in Nick's hand; I heard a jostle at the door as if some person had fallen to the floor; I tried to get out but the front door was locked; the noise was in a kind of an entry or room back of the bar room; I never was in the place. Could not see who was in the back room at that time. I tried to get out the back way but could not and turned back again. When I turned back to the front door it was open and Lemon was just going out. When I got out I hallooed "police" and "murder." Lemon had been crying murder on the street for some time. I could not say where Nick Hoffman was when I heard the fuss in the back room; he went that way and was out of my sight. When Laughran made his appearance at the back door Nick Hoffman was standing along by my side at the bar. I was standing with my back to the bar handy to the door. He was leaning against the counter. Steve Hoffman was at the corner of the bar; Steve followed after Nick when he went toward Laughran; one other man went into the back room, then came out and returned again; the knife Nick pulled out was a pocket knife; could not say what size it was; Laughran did not seem to be drunk when we went into Hoffman's; the party in Hoffman's were apparently sober so far as I could see; in fact I might have been more drunk than any of them; could not say how Laughran was dressed; I helped to put Laughran out, and I think it was that man Brosie who locked the door; can't say whether Laughran had his hat or coat on or off; could not say how far Nick Hoffman was from Laughran when he made his appearance at the back door; did not hear him say anything when he started towards Laughran; did not see Stephen do anything but follow after his brother; I next saw Laughran in the back part of Hugh Hanlon's; I was about five or ten minutes or more after I saw him at the back door of Hoffman's bar room; then I saw him in Hanlon's house; do not know how he got into Hanlon's house; he was laying on the broad of his back with a good deal of blood on him; that is all I noticed at that time; the Hoffman's were arrested and so was I; the policeman requested me to go along with him; I did not see Laughran again until the next morning; he was very weak and was breathing heavily; I saw him about three days afterward; he appeared to be a little easier; I saw him two days after that, and did not see him after until I saw him dead. He appeared to be mending when I saw him alive the last time.

At this point Court took a recess until seven o'clock.

EVENING SESSION.

Court convened at seven o'clock, but a half hour elapsed before the counsel were ready to proceed. At half-past seven Mr. Hanlon, who was on the stand when court adjourned, was called again:

Cross-examination—Laughran, myself and Lemon went into Steph. Hoffman's house together; it was about two o'clock; Hoffman's door was open; Laughran went in first; I went in next and Lemon last; we did not knock at the door; we had been in Lemon's house before we went to Hoffman's; we had been there from an hour to an hour and a half; I went into Lemon's about one o'clock I think; could not state the time exactly, it was not before twelve o'clock; I had been out above the toll gate towards Lawrenceville to McKee's before I went to Lemon's; went to McKee's between seven and eight o'clock in the evening; do not know what time I left McKee's; I came in on the emmigrant train; I went into the Rush House before going to Lemon's; I took a drink or two at McKee's; I might have taken four; I had not six; I sometimes drank whiskey and sometimes ale; I took a drink of whiskey at the Rush House; I only remained there while I was getting my drink, and came out again; I then went into a cellar and got a stew of oysters; I then went straight to Lemon's; I found Tom Laughran, John Lemon and the two strangers mentioned; I was introduced to the strangers; I do not recollect their names; Laughran introduced me to them; I could not tell how long it was from the time I went into Lemon's that we went into Hoffman's; we had something to drink at Lemon's; I could not tell how many drinks were taken there; I lost the count, and could not tell how many I had; Laughran drank as often as I did at Lemon's; I could not say whether Lemon drank every time or not; I know he drank once; I think I drank ale only after I came to Lemon's; I don't know that my memory was much the worse for the drinks I had taken; I might have been a little the worse; when I say I lost count, I mean that I don't know how often I drank there; if I had been perfectly sober I might have recollected the number; I believe I had ten drinks at Hoffman's before the difficulty occurred there; I am not certain about the number; I could not say what I drank; I was getting pretty "funny" at that time; I could walk straight as any man, but I "felt my beer." I was called before the Mayor the morning after the fight, and examined; went to the Mayor's office and was incapable of making a statement, and was sent back again; I was incapable because I had drank too much liquor and lying in the cell; I could not exactly tell what time it was that we were examined, but it was the same day; I remember that Lemon and the Mayor were present; there might have been more there; do not know whether Mr. Moore was there or not; the examination was in the front office. I did not state to the Mayor that after the affray I found myself in the back alley and did not know how I got there; I said I found my way out to the back door, but could not find my way out to Mulberry alley, and came back again, and by the time I got into the bar-room Lemon was getting out of the front door; when Laughran was put out one of the strangers went out with him and the other stayed in. I told the Mayor at that examination that I was so much affected with liquor that I could not exactly tell what Nicholas Hoffman said; I do not recollect yet and would not state it as a fact; I did not say to the Mayor that I thought Lemon went out with Laughran; I know that Lemon was in the house with me all the time; I have as clear and distinct recollection of that fact as I have of the number of drinks I took in Lemon's house; he was all the friend I had and he stuck by me; I believe there was seven in the room after Laughran was put out—the stranger, Lemon, myself, Nick Hoffman, Steve and his wife, and the man called Brosie; could not say when the stranger got out; he was in the room when Hoffman pulled the knife out of his pocket; I could not say from five to ten minutes of the time from the pulling out of the knife until I saw Laughran at the back door; the time was not very long; I have no clear recollection of the time at all; I could not say whether the stranger got out the back or front way; I have no clear recollection of distance, and cannot say how far Hoffman was from Laughran when the latter appeared at the back door; he was standing near the front of the bar, and the other came to the other end of the bar; both the Hoffmans' heads were bleeding pretty freely when Laughran was put out; I did not see any blood on Laughran when he appeared at the back door; did not see any blood, hurts or wounds on him when he was put out of the door; do not know how Nicholas Hoffman got his head hurt; did not see any one strike him; did not see him all the time during the fray; did not see Laughran nor any of them during the fray; they were all in a pile, only Lemon and me, and we were not in it until we went to part them; we were standing between them and the door; I did not see any one in the bar but the woman and Lemon going out at the front door, when I returned from trying to get out at the back door, my recollection of what took place there is not very distinct; I would not state anything for fact.

John Lemon, sworn—Live on Penn street, No. 447, next door to where Stephen Hoffman lived. I remember the fight; Laughran came to my house about nine or ten o'clock; there were two friends of his there, and he went out with them and they returned again, about twelve o'clock, cannot say how long they remained the first time they were there; the last time they came they stopped until between one and two o'clock, Hanlon and Laughran both went out together, and I went in five or ten minutes after; when I went to Hoffman's door, it was a little open and I saw Nick Hoffman inside and I went inside; Hanlon, Laughran, Nick and Stephen Hoffman, and Mrs. Hoffman and a man by the name of Brosie were in there; they had a drink on the bar and I drank with them; Nick Hoffman then ordered up a drink; I went out and said I would be in in a minute's time; I had left those two strangers in my house and I told them to come out a few minutes and we went into Hoffman's; I took a drink and the strangers had a drink; Nick Hoffman and Hanlon were talking about rolling mill affairs and Laughran got to talking after some little time; Hanlon did not say much after that; it was Nick Hoffman; they talked for some time; apparently no hard feelings between them; Hoffman told Laughran he was a liar and struck him; they got into a fuss then and Loughran came down on his back; when they got down Steeve came into the fuss, but I can't say whether he was trying to separate them or not; it got to be a mixed up thing between all parties; they finally succeeded in getting them separated, and when Loughran got to his feet he made a stroke or two at the Hoffmans; some of the folks got him outside; he tried to get in again, but Brosie, I think, locked the door, after that there was no one in the bar room but Nick Hoffman, his brother, Hanlon and I and Hoffman's wife; I saw Brosie locking the door, but I did not see him after that; the door was locked from the inside; we talked a little while and the two Hoffmans appeared to be used up; both of them were bleeding. Nick Hoffman pulled out a knife. It he made any threats I don't remember what he said. While we were talking Laughran came to the back door. The two Hoffmans went for him when they seen him. They met in a hall off the bar-room and got into a fuss. I don't know how many were in there; it was dark and I could not see. I went as far as the hall door at the back of the barroom, and the passage was narrow. I saw no way of passing so as to get out the back way. I turned round and seen that the door was locked in front, and I told Mrs. Hoffman, who was behind the bar crying, to get me the key or I would have to break the door and get out; she came around the bar and the key was lying on the floor; I took it and opened the door and went out; I ran around the corner of Twelfth street and called watch; I went down to Mulberry alley to the entrance to Hoffman's house; I heard Laughran coming out lamenting or moaning like a man feeling pain; when he come to me I got hold of him and took him through the yard to my own house and laid him on the kitchen floor; I ran up stairs and waked up the boarders and told them to go down; went outside and met the policeman outside of Hoffman's door; I told them to go into Hoffman's; Steve and Nick Hoffman and I think Broser was there, were standing on the bar-room floor and I told the police to arrest them; I went to my own bar-room and a policeman told me I would have to go down with him to the Mayor's office. After Nick Hoffman called Laughran a liar and struck at him, they got holts, and they went down, and Nick was on top of him but did not appear to be striking Laughran; when the fuss commenced Steve was standing at the far end of the bar or behind it; he came to the fuss and got appearantly mixed up in the fight, but I could not tell whether he was fighting or trying to separate the men, they were on the floor two or three minutes; I believe Laughran had a pair of dark pants, a dark coat and black slouch hat on when he went into Hoffmans; when Laughran fell at the beginning of the fight it appeared as if his feet were pulled out from under him and he fell very heavy; I dont know who put Loughran out; can't say I saw any one put him out; it was about two minutes after he was put out that Nick Hoffman pulled out the knife; the knife appeared to be about two or two and a half inches in the blade; he opened the knife when he took it out of his pocket; he made use of some expression but I don't know what he said; he appeared to be excited; it was from one to three or four minutes after he pulled out the knife until Laughran came to the back door; he had the knife open during this time; after he opened the knife he done nothing until Laughran made his appearance; I don't remember what Hoffman said after he opened the knife; I know there is one door leads from the back part of the bar room; can't say which of the Hoffmans went in the door first; the door was closed when Laughran came to it, and he opened the door about a foot and looked in; you could see his face but that was all; the two Hoffman's then went out of the door into the back room in the hall; can't say how Laughran was dressed when I met him in the alley.

Cross-examined—I have been residing in that house since last November a year; I went there in November, 1868; I do not recollect the day of the week that this occurred; do not remember the day only from seeing it in the paper this morning; don't mind who kept the house Hoffman lived in before he came; there was a German there whose name was Peter Hauben; was there but seldom; was not acquainted with Stephen before he came there; I knew Nick Hoffman; I knew Laughran before that time; he boarded with me some four months prior to that time; I never saw those strangers before; saw one of them the next day and was talking to him about the affair; one of them was a stout, chunky man, and the other was a tall slim man; I don't remember how they were dressed; I might have taken a drink and might have taken a dozen that day, I don't remember how many drinks I took that day; it is likely that I took some that night; I don't know that I did; I did not say positively that I did take a drink that night in my examination in chief; I did not say in my examination in chief that I took two drinks that night; Laughran and these strangers went out of my house and came back again about twelve o'clock; they remained about an hour or an hour and a-half; there was no one in the house but me when they came in the last time; Laughran I guess had taken two or three drinks in my house; I followed them about ten minutes afterwards, leaving the two strangers in my house; when I went in some of the party was treating; the conversation between Hanlon and Laughran began before I brought the strangers in; they were talking about Zug's mill; I don't remember that Hoffman said he intended to go back to Zug's mill to work; Laughran did not call Hoffman a liar first. I was examined before the Mayor. I do not recollect stating to the Mayor that when Laughran was put out of the door that Hanlon went out. I don't know whether I stated to the Mayor that there was no one in the room but Stephen and Nicholas Hoffman, Mrs. Hoffman and myself after Laughran was put out. It was about a minute or two after Laughran tried to push the door open that Nicholas Hoffman pulled out the knife. I kept my tavern open until half past one o'clock. Hanlon sung a song or two; I don't remember any other singing; I don't know how Laughran took up the conversation; I could not say that I saw Laughran put out of the door; neither of the strangers were in the room after the door was locked; I did not see them go out; I did not see them any more that evening; I saw one of them the next morning and have never seen the other since; don't remember the stranger's name; never saw Brosie before that night that I remember.

BUSINESSES of all kinds this year have been conducted with much more general success than they were last year. This is to be attributed principally to large crops reaped at the last harvest. In this particular section business men have been largely stimulated by Pier, Dannals & Co's cream ale.
